Local Men Now Join Search for College Youths

J. A. Fischer Fishing Boat Aids Coast Guard Cutter in Drugging River Near Red Hook

Relative Helps

Douglas Nash, Uncle of One, Offers Further Aid in Searching River

The Kingston men on a boat owned by John A. Fischer of Abec street are aiding the crew of the coast guard cutter Icarus and others searching the Hudson near Red Hook for the three missing Bard College freshmen, who it is feared drowned in the river.

The local trio, led by Frank "Shad" Mower, assisted yesterday in the search for the three youths and because of their knowledge of the river in that section, were called back to give their assistance again today. Mower is accompanied by Daniel Burns and Francis Carter.

Several state troopers, college officials and federal men were on the boat manned by the local men yesterday. The boat is a motorized fishing craft bearing the name "Confidence," and was offered by Mr. Fischer when officials in charge of the search sought his assistance.

Mr. Mower, who is commodore of the Kingston Power Boat Association, has had considerable experience in navigating the Hudson and is familiar with the channel depths in the region where, it is believed, the youths might have drowned. The "Confidence" left the local dock to resume the search today shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Grappling hooks were provided by Captain Edward H. Albrecht, of the local fire department.

The coast guard cutter Icarus was called to join the search today, according to The Associated Press. The coast guardmen working under the direction of State Police Lieutenant H. A. Gay, manned the several motor launches at the scene, and dragged the river for the bodies.

The youths reported missing yesterday are James Starr Nash of Norwalk, Conn., Philip G. Upton of St. Joseph, Mich., and Stanley W. Jones of Yonkers, all 20 years of age.

Douglas Nash, of Norwalk, uncle of one of the youths, offered further aid as he dispatched a large fishing boat adapted to shallow water to assist in the grapping.

State police appealed to the river all day yesterday in a futile attempt to locate the bodies and John Hurley of St. Joseph, representing the Upton family, said, "it is pretty well concluded by all of us that the boys met with an accident and drowned."

The trio sailed out from the college at Annandale-on-Hudson, for a fishing trip Wednesday night. Their dinghy was found, washed ashore, its oars and seats missing and water in its bottom.

Harold Mestre, college dean, who is aiding in the search, also said he is convinced the boys drowned.

Senators Dispute Whether President Would Run Again

Mr. Vernon Speech Brings Varied Speculation as to What Allusion to Sacrifice Means

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Senators disputed today as to whether President Roosevelt's latest public utterance indicated he would run for a third term in case a general war breaks out, or some other crisis develops, before the presidential nominating conventions next year.

Standing on the porch of George Washington's home at Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt spoke of the first president as a man who sacrificed his own desires by accepting the presidency "in a time of real crisis and deep emergency."

Washington lived the life of a country squire and after his fight for independence must have felt he was entitled to return to it, the President said, but because the permanence of the republic was at stake he continued in public life.

Holt's Viewpoint

These remarks, delivered in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Washington's notification of his election to the presidency, brought this comment from Senator Holt (D-N.Y.), a frequent administration critic:

"Of course, we have been living in a period of crisis ever since Mr. Roosevelt went into office. There is no doubt in my mind that the President hopes the country shares his opinion that it needs him another four years."

But Senator Schwelvenbach (D-Washington), an administration supporter, said he had never seen any indication by the President that he wanted to run again.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) observed that the chances of a Democratic victory in 1940 depend largely on Mr. Roosevelt's making the race.

Senators Disagree

There was disagreement among senators also as to the wisdom of the President's speech to the Pan-American Union yesterday, in which he denounced "dreams of conquest" and expressed the hope that "our sister nations beyond the seas will break the bonds of the ideas which constrain them toward perpetual warfare."

While some Nazis in Berlin were declaring that Mr. Roosevelt had revealed himself as "the master who pulls behind the anti-German encirclement policy," Schwelvenbach said the most important sentence of the speech was, "by example we can at least show them the possibility" of peace.

The only possible extension of the Monroe doctrine implied in the address was that of economic protection for any American republic whose independence might be menaced from abroad, the Washington Senator declared, adding:

"No reasonable person familiar with trade conditions in South America could object to this. I sincerely hope that the constant

Substitute Road For New Rondout Reservoir Opposed

Neversink and Sullivan Against Parkway Type of Highway to Run on City Property

Application for approval of plans for the substitute highway which will border the new Rondout reservoir under construction by the City of New York and for appointment of commissioners of appraisal was made Friday before Justice Harry E. Schirick at special term. Henry R. Bright and John E. Eagan of the corporation counsel's office appeared and made the application.

Under the law it is necessary for the supreme court to approve plans for substitute highways as well as to secure approval of the State Highway Department. Friday's application was for the dual purpose of securing this approval of plans and also for the appointment of commissioners to hear claims for damages. The approval of the plans of necessity comes first in consideration since if the plans are not approved there would be no need for commissioners.

James S. Bixby for the State Highway Department told the court that the plans had been approved by the state department but there was opposition on the part of several other interested parties including the county of Sullivan and town of Neversink, several public utility companies and Ulster county and the town of Wawarsing reserved rights to enter opposition later if necessary.

Objections Raised

The opposition on the part of the town of Neversink and county of Sullivan to the plans for the substitute highway which call for a parkway type of road which will run on the city property. Unlike the Ashokan highway the new highway about the Rondout reservoir will run within the city property and not skirt it as was the case of the Ashokan route. This will mean that there will be a strip of land of considerable width outside the highway and between abutting private lands.

In the Ashokan case private property abuts on the highway and allows private enterprises to thrive along the roadway. Along the new Rondout reservoir the roadway will be some distance within the city taking line and there will be a strip of city land on both sides of the highway which will give a parkway effect and will not permit gas stations, signboards and refreshment stands to abut directly on the road. Private property will be given access through lateral highways which will run off the parkway. It is this feature which caused objection from the county of Sullivan.

The city of New York contends that this type of boulevard is approved by the state department in that it gives a scenic highway and

President's Stand For Democracies Receives Support

M. E. Church Conference Expresses Its Approval of FDR's Opposition to Dictators

President Roosevelt's stand for the democracies against "totalitarian aggression" found favor today in the eyes of the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session in Poughkeepsie, says an Associated Press dispatch.

The conference approved last night, by resolution, Mr. Roosevelt's "attempt to put the moral and economic strength of America" behind other democracies against "aggression of the totalitarian states."

Amendment of the neutrality act so "no aggressor or treaty-breaking nations shall be able to purchase any material of any kind from us," "taking out of politics" administration of relief.

The sustenance plan for adequate ministerial support was adopted Friday at a union session of ministers and laymen. This plan requires a minimum salary of $1,500 for ministers who are members of the conference, and $1,200 for supply pastors. For churches unable to pay the minimum salaries, the sustenance fund of the conference will share the expense.

Officers of the laymen's association who were re-elected include: Carl H. Fowler, New York city, president; Carl T. Price, New York city, secretary; and H. B. Truran, Brewster, treasurer. More than 100 laymen were in attendance.

The sessions Friday morning also named Claude A. Burrill of Christ Church, New York city, a trustee of Syracuse University. In discussing the recent merger of the three Methodist denominations, the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Protestant Church, it was reported that there are four Methodist Protestant Churches in the bounds of the New York annual conference which will be affected by the merger, including the churches in Franklin, North Tarrytown, White Plains and Tompkins Corners.

Worries About Farm

Tonawanda, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—"The only thing that worries me," said a Grand Island farmer being led off to begin serving a 30 days' sentence for intoxication, "is how all my pigs and chickens are going to get fed." Police Lieutenant William Schreibe wondered too. So he led the prisoner back to City Judge Gordon T. Hackett's bench and explained, "I'll suspend sentence." Judge Hackett decided, "You've been away from them long enough now for them to be nearly starved."

Six Persons Killed In Violent Twister

Five died in demolished farm homes. An automobile was jerked into the air and smashed to earth several feet away, killing the sixth victim.

Hospital attendants said 12 injured were in a critical condition. The storm hit first at Vici, 60 miles south of here. It injured seven, blew in one end of a church in which 100 boys and girls were attending Epworth League and left a trail of wrecked buildings, disrupted power and telephone lines and smashed windows.

President Would Act As "Intermediary" in Communicating Offers

Britain Seeking Russia's Help; Danzig Feared

Anxiety Felt Over Reported Italian Troop Concentration in Spanish Morocco; Danzig Rumors

(By The Associated Press)

Britain's diplomats sought Soviet Russia's weight today to swing the European balance of power in favor of the anti-aggression bloc amid growing rumors that Nazis might present the free city of Danzig to Reichsfuehrer Hitler for his 50th birthday next Thursday.

Britain also strengthened here empire defenses and renewed consultations with France, supposedly because of anxiety over reported Italian troop concentrations in Spanish Morocco and increasing Spanish War strength on the mainland behind Gibraltar.

Rumors in Berlin of German designs on Danzig were strengthened by DNB (official German news agency) reports of alleged anti-German incidents in Polish Silesia. Publication of such stories, it was recalled, were ominous signs for annexed Austria and crushed Czechoslovakia.

Poland and Rumania, meanwhile, united against any German drive into eastern Europe, drafting strong defense plans. Both nations—already in the grand alliance through French-British pledges to help defend their independence—exchanged oral guarantees in Warsaw and in Bucharest.

Poland and Rumania have been allied since 1921 in defense of their eastern frontiers against Russia and, despite their new peril from the west, want no Red army troops on their soil.

Britain's problem, therefore, was to enlist Russia's huge air force to help Poland and Rumania, a compromise. Informed sources in London said Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, would see the Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Maxim Litvinoff, today.

Rumania recalled from service several classes of troops which had been concentrated near the Hungarian borders for several weeks. A war department withdrawal order followed Hungarian assurances of respect for the Rumanian border if the nations could agree on problems concerning Hungarian minorities in Rumania.

The British war office announced that the first battalion of the Welsh guards regiment would be sent to Gibraltar to strengthen Britain's defenses at the western gate of the Mediterranean. Britain bolstered her empire outposts also in these ways:

Nairobi, Kenya Colony—Emergency plans were drafted to speed reinforcements to the east African colony bordering Italian Ethiopia and Somaliland.

Malaya—The government proposed giving an additional $5,000,000 for empire defense.

Hongkong—Emergency regulations were decreed for the arrest and detention of aliens in concentration camps without trial.

Capetown—Union of South Africa government adopted a plan

Urges Hitler and Mussolini to Assure Peace for at Least 10 Years

Asks Assurance

Independent Nations Are Named by President in His Peace Appeal

Washington, April 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt has urged Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini to assure peace for a period of at least 10 years.

The chief executive disclosed at an unusual Saturday press conference today that he had transmitted messages to Hitler and Mussolini offering to act as "an intermediary" in communicating any offers for peace by Germany and Italy to other nations.

The President asked specifically whether Hitler and Mussolini were willing to give assurance that their armed forces would not attack a score or now-independent nations.

"Such an assurance clearly must apply not only to the present day," Mr. Roosevelt's message "but also to a future sufficiently long to give every opportunity to work by peaceful methods for a more permanent peace."

"I therefore suggest that you construe the word 'future' to apply to a minimum period of assured non-aggression of 10 years at the least—a quarter of a century if we dare look that far ahead."

"If such assurance is given by your government, I will immediately transmit to the government of the nations I have named and I will simultaneously inquire whether, as I am reasonably sure, each of the nations enumerated above will in turn give like assurance for transmission to you."

Names Countries

The President specifically asked Hitler and Mussolini whether they would give assurances that their armed forces would not "attack or invade the territory or possessions of the following independent nations:

"Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Spain, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Russia, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Iraq, the Arabias, Syria, Palestine, Egypt and Iran."

The President said he would act as a "friendly intermediary" in transmitting peace assurances from Hitler and Mussolini to other nations.

He added that if reciprocal assurances for peace are given, then the nations of the world can begin discussing looking toward disarmament and the opening of trade channels.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States would participate in a conference on these two problems. Nations other than the United States, he said, could "undertake such political discussions as they may consider necessary or desirable."

Mr. Roosevelt read to reporters in his oval office the message he sent to Hitler and Mussolini. Secretary Hull sat on one side of the chief executive and Chairman Pittman (D-Ne.) of the Senate foreign relations committee on the other.

The chief executive's message was dispatched at 9 a. m. (E.S.T.) last night. A copy signed by the president went to Hitler, as chancellor of Germany, and a copy signed by Hull went to Mussolini, as premier of Italy.

Mr. Roosevelt's communication stressed that there now was a general fear of war throughout the world.

"The existence of this fear," he said, "is of definite concern to the people of the United States for whom I speak, as it must also be to the peoples of the other nations of the entire western hemisphere. 'All of them know that any major war, even if it were to be confined to other continents, must bear heavily on them during its continuance and also for generations to come.'"

the acute tension in which the world has been living during the past few weeks there would seem to be at least a momentary relaxation—because no troops are at this moment on the march—this may be an opportune moment for me to send you this message."

Recalls Other Message

Recalling his message to Hitler urging peace prior to the Munich conference, Mr. Roosevelt wrote that since then "the tide of events seems to have reverted to the threat of arms."

"If such threats continue," the message said, "it seems inevitable that much of the world must become involved in common ruin. 'All the world, victor nations,

Five died in demolished farm homes. An automobile was jerked into the air and smashed to earth several feet away, killing the sixth victim. Hospital attendants said 12 injured were in a critical condition.

The storm hit first at Vici, 60 miles south of here. It injured seven, blew in one end of a church in which 100 boys and girls were attending Epworth League and left a trail of wrecked buildings, disrupted power and telephone lines and smashed windows.

Then it whirled northward, swooping down near Hopewell, 40 miles from Vici. There it wrecked two automobiles and a farmhouse, killed Mrs. Bessie Wendel of Waynoka, and injured 11 persons.

President Would Act As "Intermediary" in Communicating Offers

Britain Seeking Russia's Help; Danzig Feared

Auxiliary Felt Over Reported Italian Troop Concentration in Spanish Morocco; Danzig Rumors

(By The Associated Press)

Britain's diplomats sought Soviet Russia's weight today to swing the European balance of power in favor of the anti-aggression bloc amid growing rumors that Nazis might present the free city of Danzig to Reichsfuehrer Hitler for his 50th birthday next Thursday.

Britain also strengthened here empire defenses and renewed consultations with France, supposed because of anxiety over reported Italian troop concentrations in Spanish Morocco and increasing Spanish War strength on the mainland behind Gibraltar.

Rumors in Berlin of German designs on Danzig were strengthened by DNB (official German news agency) reports of alleged anti-German incidents in Polish Silesia. Publication of such stories, it was recalled, were ominous signs for annexed Austria and crushed Czechoslovakia.

Poland and Rumania, meanwhile, united against any German drive into eastern Europe, drafting strong defense plans. Both nations—already in the grand alliance through French-British pledges to help defend their independence—exchanged oral guarantees in Warsaw and in Bucharest.

Poland and Rumania have been allied since 1921 in defense of their eastern frontiers against Russia and, despite their new peril from the west, want no Red army troops on their soil.

Britain's problem, therefore, was to enlist Russia's huge air force to help Poland and Rumania—a compromise. Informed sources in London said Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, would see the Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Maxim Litvinoff, today.

Rumania recalled from service several classes of troops which had been concentrated near the Hungarian borders for several weeks. A war department withdrawal order followed Hungarian assurances of respect for the Rumanian border if the nations could agree on problems concerning Hungarian minorities in Rumania.

The British war office announced that the first battalion of the Welsh guards regiment would be sent to Gibraltar to strengthen Britain's defenses at the western gate of the Mediterranean. Britain bolstered her empire outposts also in these ways:

Nairobi, Kenya Colony—Emergency plans were drafted to speed reinforcements to the east African colony bordering Italian Ethiopia and Somaliland.

Malaya—The government proposed giving an additional $5,000,000 for empire defense.

Hongkong—Emergency regulations were decreed for the arrest and detention of aliens in concentration camps without trial.

Capetown—Union of South Africa government adopted a plan

Urges Hitler and Mussolini to Assure Peace for at Least 10 Years

Asks Assurance

Independent Nations Are Named by President in His Peace Appeal

Washington, April 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt has urged Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini to assure peace for a period of at least 10 years.

The chief executive disclosed at an unusual Saturday press conference today that he had transmitted messages to Hitler and Mussolini offering to act as "an intermediary" in communicating any offers for peace by Germany and Italy to other nations.

The President asked specifically whether Hitler and Mussolini were willing to give assurance that their armed forces would not attack a score or now-independent nations.

"Such an assurance clearly must apply not only to the present day," Mr. Roosevelt's message "but also to a future sufficiently long to give every opportunity to work out peaceful methods for a more permanent peace."

"I therefore suggest that you construe the word 'future' to apply to a minimum period of assured non-aggression—10 years at the least—a quarter of a century if we dare look that far ahead."

"If such assurance is given by your government, I will immediately transmit to the government of the nations I have named and I will simultaneously inquire whether, as I am reasonably sure, each of the nations enumerated above will in turn give like assurance for transmission to you."

Names Countries

The president specifically asked Hitler and Mussolini whether they would give assurance that their armed forces would not "attack or invade the territory or possessions of the following independent nations:

"Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Spain, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Russia, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Arabias, Syria, Palestine, Egypt and Iraq."

The president said he would act as a "friendly intermediary" in transmitting peace assurances from Hitler and Mussolini to other nations.

He added that if reciprocal assurances for peace are given, then the nations of the world can begin discussing looking toward disarmament and the opening of trade channels.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States would participate in a conference on these two problems. Nations other than the United States, he said, could "undertake such political discussions as they may consider necessary or desirable."

Mr. Roosevelt read to reporters in his oval office the message he sent to Hitler and Mussolini. Secretary Hull sat on one side of the chief executive and Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the Senate foreign relations committee on the other.

The chief executive's message was dispatched at 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) last night. A copy signed by the president went to Hitler, as chancellor of Germany, and a copy signed by Hull went to Mussolini, as premier of Italy.

Mr. Roosevelt's communication stressed that there now was a general fear of war throughout the world.

"The existence of this fear," he said, "is of definite concern to the people of the United States for whom I speak, as it must also be to the peoples of the other nations of the entire western hemisphere."

"All of them know that any major war, even if it were to be confined to other continents, must bear heavily on them during its continuance and also for generations to come."

The acute tension in which the world has been living during the past few weeks there would seem to be at least a momentary relaxation—because no troops are at this moment on the march—this may be an opportune moment for me to send you this message."

Recalls Other Message

Recalling his message to Hitler urging peace prior to the Munich conference, Mr. Roosevelt wrote that since then "the tide of events seems to have reverted to the threat of arms."

"If such threats continue," the message said, "it seems inevitable that much of the world must become involved in common ruin."

"All the world, victor nations,"

Western Union Retires Fraser

Local Manager Will Get Pension; Long in Service

Frederick C. Fraser, who for a number of years has been local manager for the Western Union Telegraph Company, was on Thursday, April 13, placed on the retired list with a pension. He has reached the age limit for active service with the company.

Mr. Fraser entered the employ of the Western Union as a messenger boy 50 years ago and but for a brief period when he was with the Prudential Insurance Co. has been with the telegraph company in active service ever since.

In speaking of his years of activity Mr. Fraser, who began at the Western Union office which was then located at 221 Ferry street, told of the business which was then so prosperous in the Rondout section of the city, of the many trips messenger boys had to make on foot, before the days of the bicycle, to the D. & H. Coal Company offices, the bluestone mills at Wilbur, the Newark Lime and Cement Company at Ponckhockie, besides trips on the steam yachts to Connelly and Eddyville. There were no telephones in those early days and much business was transacted by telegraph.

After serving considerable time in Kingston Mr. Fraser was for 18 years manager of the Western Union office at Hoboken, N. J. It was a very busy one during the World War, due to the fact that Hoboken was one of the points of embarkation for overseas service. Several years ago Mr. Fraser was returned to Kingston as manager of the local office, where he has made many friends. In retiring he expressed his thanks to his assistants here and to the general public. He will be succeeded by H. J. Eaton of the superintendent's traveling staff.

Safer Bicycling

By Lieut. Charles Phinney

During the year 1938 articles appeared in the local press instructing bicyclists the necessity of exercising care in the operation of their bicycles, with the thought in mind of eliminating accidents, especially to children who fail to comply with the rules and regulations set forth in the vehicle and traffic laws of the state.

As a result of these articles accidents did diminish somewhat but not as much as had been expected.

At the present time the police are about to inaugurate a drive on bicyclists and expect the full cooperation of all who ride bicycles. It is to their advantage to comply with the regulations set forth in the traffic law so as not to force the police to make arrests and thereby leave a stigma on that particular child ever after.

The police have been exceptionally lenient with the children who operate bicycles, but the time has come whereby drastic action must be taken to correct their acts, which are undoubtedly thoughtlessly committed, but are nevertheless a violation of the law.

No operator of a bicycle has full control of his machine when there is another person sitting on the handlebars or frame.

Another gross violation is to ride in the center of the street, or on the left side of the highway. The place to ride on a bicycle is as far to the right of the highway as is possible thus eliminating the possibility of an accident with a faster moving vehicle.

The law also provides that bicycles shall be equipped with adequate brakes, steering mechanism, sound signals—not sirens—front and rear reflectors and shall display a lighted lamp on the front, which shall be visible for a distance of 500 feet for night driving and that no second person shall ride on same except on a seat securely fastened to the machine in the rear of the driver and provided with foot rests and hand grips.

If these requirements are fulfilled there is no doubt but what the bicyclist and the police will get along famously.

It is also desired that the parents of children who operate bicycles cooperate with the police and instruct their children to obey the rules of the road.

If the rules and regulations are observed there will be less danger.

A 3-Story Flat Houses

Beavers, Muskrats, Mink

BUTTE, MONT.—Beavers, muskrats and mink are sometimes employed by the CCC in dam building and in water conservation, have a new job now, according to Charles A. Joy, supervisor of Deer Lodge National Forest.

These industrious animals apparently have gone in for apartment life and, in so doing, have demonstrated how to get along with the neighbors.

Joy related a tale of a three-story beaver apartment house that he had found, occupied in the basement by the beaver builders, the second floor housed a family of muskrats, and the pent house was let to a young mink couple, and several little minks.

Apparently the strange family is on the best of terms.

Flashes of Life

Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Long Snake
Hartford, Conn.—Mrs. Carmela V. Tine told the supreme court that, while she and her husband were on a train coming from New York to Hartford, he left her to go for a smoke. That was in 1921, and Mrs. Tine said she had not seen him since.

Free Chaser
Reidsville, N. C.—Judge E. H. Wrenn has decided that the "morn'g after" taste is to make it worse.

He announced that anyone convicted in his court of intemperate drinking would be sentenced to drink eight ounces of castor oil. A physician informed the judge a dose that size wouldn't hurt anyone.

Surprise
Lincoln, Ill.—Jacob Whitman of nearby Middletown was troubled with rats in the basement of his home. He bought a large wire trap and baited it. Examining the trap the following morning he found he had caught two rats—and his cat.

Rough Ride
Scottsbluff, Neb.—Mike Peters, Scottsbluff, cranked his car in gear.

With Peters draped over the radiator it crashed through a garage door and rammed a car undergoing repairs.

Peters' shoulder was bruised.

Says Bodies Should Be Interred in a Casemate

Saugerties, April 11.

Editor, The Freeman.

Dear Sir:

Most people when they are dead are buried under dirt and stones, which is not a desirable way to have the body placed at rest. To inter a body it should be placed in a casemate.

Such a vault is like a subway, built large enough to inter many bodies. There ought to be three large ones in each county. The amount needed to start with is $5,000.

A casemate could be constructed for this amount large enough to contain a number of bodies. The casemate would be constructed on high ground and would last forever.

The people then ought to build a mausoleum in cemeteries of the monuments with the epitaph on the outside and use the plots for some other purpose. A cemetery is an unsightly place with all these big stones and they ought to become a thing of the past.

The soil over a casemate can be utilized for pasture or kept in proper condition in some way. The expense of burial will be less in a grove than any other burial. One cover with a plate and epitaph on it is all that would be required.

If a number of people were interested in the plan, casemates could be constructed between Kingston and Ellenville; also between Kingston and New Paltz.

Respectfully yours,

WATSON CRAW,

Saugerties.

Three Scientists Study Mysterious Cow Disease

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Three scientists in the University of Minnesota's dairy department are hunting for a minute organism—a germ believed the cause of a disease that annually kills thousands of dairy cows throughout the country.

The scientists specifically are studying a live stock ailment called mastitis, or as known to farmers, "garget." The disease attacks the udders of cows and infected animals must be killed.

The research workers, headed by Dr. W. E. Peterson, believe that mastitis develops from a small organism—but what organism still is a mystery to them.

When Blood Clogs

When blood is exposed to air, it clogs. This reaction is caused by a blood chemical called thrombin. Without it human beings might bleed to death from the merest scratches. Some persons have less thrombin and bleed more than others. They are poor surgical risks. They make it hard for the surgeon to see what he is doing, and sometimes lose so much blood that it is necessary to interrupt crucial operations to make transfusions.

Spring Concert By Mendelssohn Club Earns Tributes

The Mendelssohn Club closed its 36th season last evening with the annual spring concert given in the high school auditorium, where Mary and Virginia Drane, duo-violinists, and Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, pianist, were the participating artists.

The Drane sisters played Handel's Sonata No. 3 in G minor, "Liebesfreud" by Kreisler, "Tango" by Albeniz-Rico, "Perpetual Motion" by Rues, "Romance" by Faure, and "Navarra" by Sarasate. Dr. Spross appeared in one group of piano solos which included, "Etude Romantique" by Chaminade, "Notturno" by Respighi, and "Scherzo" by Moszkowski. The men's club was heard in four groups of selections, directed by Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh with Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., as the accompanist.

The usual large and enthusiastic audience filled the auditorium, nearly to capacity and many expressed the opinion that the performance was one of the best, a statement which is made each year, as each succeeding performance continues to please.

The duo-violinists were charming young ladies playing with technical skill and tone production, but also for the communicative understanding of their interpretations. The duo-violin ensemble in itself new to the concert stage, was also new to a program by the Mendelssohn Club as instrumentalists are not generally featured on these programs.

The distinguished honorary member of the club, Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, accompanied the violinists and made the program complete with his brilliant piano solos.

The men sang with their usual earnestness and enjoyment, and, barring a weakness in the tenor section and the protrusion of a tenor voice in the last two numbers, gave a performance of credit to the high standing of quality maintained by them.

The program opened with the singing, before the curtains parted, of "Hail Friends of Music," the theme song of the Associated Glee Clubs of America. The first group began with the chorale "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach, "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn, and "The Hundred Pipers" by Whiting. The Bach chorale and "Landstichting" by Grieg, "Allah's Holiday" by Friml, and "The Autumn Sea" by Gerike were the best from the musical standpoint. Rolland

County Theatre Joins Intercounty Dramatic League

In response to an invitation by the "Masquers Dramatic Club" of Liberty, representatives of the County Theatre Association met with the dramatic clubs from Port Jervis, Middletown and Liberty on April 4, and joined the "Intercounty Dramatic League". The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Meola of Middletown. Officers elected for the current year were Mr. Mead of Middletown, president, and Miss Denning of Port Jervis, secretary.

The purpose of the organization is to further the cause of the theatre groups by submitting to the league, which is chosen, acted and directed solely by members of the respective clubs. They are judged by an impartial committee, sufficiently competent to compare all phases of theatre presentation. A plan not only provides interest and entertainment for the groups, but most important is an unique source of educational criticism which is so necessary to any such group.

William Scheniman, president of the Ulster County Theatre Association, states that it was good to hear of the interest and following which these dramatic clubs also enjoy in their cities. Their spring and fall productions are looked forward to with a great deal of enthusiasm. Measured in terms of years, the Ulster county group is the infant of the league, but through the interest of the members and the encouragement of a great many of the people of Kingston, the group feels that it is justified in taking a place alongside of the more seasoned ones.

The next step is fascinating. There are many alternatives in decorating any window. Shall it be straight tailored drapery, or tie-backs, or loop-ups, or curtains with cornices or valances? The latter allow even more variety for valances may be plain, cascade, boxed, or swags.

Choose your type of drapery — we'll show you appropriate fabrics. For tailored effects, stunning linens, dusties and sailcloth. For draping there are the soft fine materials, silks, damasks, Celanese voiles and marquisettes, chenille figured marquisettes, and gauzes of all kinds.

Let's be frank. Are you making the most of an opportunity to use color? Timid about colors? Want to get some thrilling color effects? Come in! Western Union Retires Fraser

Local Manager Will Get Pension; Long in Service

Frederick C. Fraser, who for a number of years has been local manager for the Western Union Telegraph Company, was on Thursday, April 13, placed on the retired list with a pension. He has reached the age limit for active service with the company. Mr. Fraser entered the employ of the Western Union as a messenger boy 50 years ago and but for a brief period when he was with the Prudential Insurance Company in active service ever since. In speaking of his years of activity Mr. Fraser, who began at the Western Union office which was then located at 22 Ferry street, told of the business which was then so prosperous in the Rondout section of the city, of the many trips messenger boys had to make on foot, before the days of the bicycle to the D. & E. Coal Company offices, the bluestone mills at Wilbur, the Newark Lime and Cement Company at Ponckhockie, besides trips on the steam yachts to Connelly and Eddyville. There were no telephones in those early days and much business was transacted by telegraph.

After serving considerable time in Kingston Mr. Fraser was for 18 years manager of the Western Union office at Hoboken, N. J. This office was a very busy one during the World War, due to the fact that Hoboken was one of the ports of embarkation for overseas service. Several years ago Mr. Fraser was returned to Kingston as manager of the local office, where he has made many friends. In retiring he expressed his thanks to his assistants here and to the general public. He will be succeeded by H. J. Eaton of the superintendent's traveling staff.

Safer Bicycling

By Lieut. Charles Phinney

During the year 1938 articles appeared in the local press instructing bicyclists the necessity of exercising care in the operation of their bicycles, with the thought in mind of eliminating accidents, especially to children who fail to comply with the rules and regulations set forth in the vehicle and traffic laws of the state.

As a result of these articles accidents did diminish somewhat but not as much as had been expected.

At the present time the police are about to inaugurate a drive on bicyclists and expect the full cooperation of all who ride bicycles. It is to their advantage to comply with the regulations set forth in the traffic law so as to force the police to make arrests and thereby leave a stigma on that particular child ever after. The police have been exceptionally lenient with the children who operate bicycles, but the time has come whereby drastic action must be taken to correct their acts, which are undoubtedly thoughtlessly committed, but are nevertheless a violation of the law.

No operator of a bicycle has full control of his machine when there is another person sitting on the handlebars or frame.

Another gross violation is to ride in the center of the street, or on the left side of the highway. The place to ride on a bicycle is as far to the right of the highway as is possible thus eliminating the possibility of an accident with a faster moving vehicle.

The law also provides that bicycles shall be equipped with adequate brakes, steering mechanism, sound signals—not sirens—front and rear reflectors and shall display a lighted lamp on the front which shall be visible for a distance of 500 feet for night driving and that no second person shall ride on same except on the machine in the rear of the driver and provided with foot rests and hand grips.

If these requirements are fulfilled there is no doubt but what the bicyclist and the police will get along famously.

It is also desired that the parents of children who operate bicycles cooperate with the police and instruct their children to obey the rules of the road.

If the rules and regulations are observed there will be less danger.

A 3-Story Flat Houses Beavers, Muskrats, Mink

BUTTE, MONT.—Beavers, sometimes employed by the CCC in dam building and in water conservation, have a new fort now, according to Charles A. Joy, supervisor of Deer Lodge National Forest.

These industrious animals apparently have gone in for apartment life and, in so doing, have demonstrated how to get along with the neighbors.

Joy related a tale of a three-story beaver apartment house that he had found, occupied in the basement by the beaver builders, the second floor housed a family of muskrats, and the pent house was let to a young mink couple, and several little minks.

Apparently the strange family is on the best of terms.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Long Smoke
Hartford, Conn.—Mrs. Carmela V. Tine told the supreme court that, while she and her husband were on a train coming from New York to Hartford, he left her to go for a smoke. That was in 1921, and Mrs. Tine said she had not seen him since.

Free Chaser
Reidsville, N. C.—Judge E. H. Wrenn has decided that the only way to cure drunks of that "morning after" taste is to make it worse.

He announced that anyone convicted in his court of intemperance drinking would be sentenced to drink eight ounces of castor oil. A physician informed the judge a dose that size wouldn't hurt anyone.

Surprise
Lincoln, Ill.—Jacob Whiteman of nearby Middletown was troubled with rats in the basement of his home. He bought a large wire trap and baited it. Examining the trap the following morning he found he had caught two rats—and his cat.

Rough Ride
Scottsbluff, Neb.—Mike Peters, Scottsbluff, cranked his car in gear.

With Peters draped over the radiator it crashed through a garage door and rammed a car undergoing repairs.

Peters' shoulder was bruised.

Says Bodies Should Be Interred in a Casemate

Saugerties, April 11. Editor, The Freeman.

Dear Sir: Most people when they are dead are buried under dirt and stones, which is not a desirable way to have the body placed at rest. To inter a body it should be placed in a casemate.

Such a vault is like a subway, built large enough to inter many bodies. There ought to be three large ones in each county. The amount needed to start with is $5,000.

A casemate could be constructed for this amount large enough to contain a number of bodies. The casemate would be constructed on high ground and would last forever.

The people then ought to build a mausoleum in cemeteries of the monuments with the epitaph on the outside and use the plots for some other purpose. A cemetery is an unsightly place with all these big stones and they ought to become a thing of the past.

The soil over a casemate can be utilized for pasture, or kept in proper condition in some way. The expense of burial will be less in a grove than any other burial. One cover with a plate and epitaph on it is all that would be required.

If a number of people were interested in the plan, casemates could be constructed between Kingston and Ellenville; also between Kingston and New Paltz.

Respectfully yours,

WATSON CRAW,

Saugerties.

American Tourists Turn Down Europe

More Families to Tour Own Country This Year.

MINNEAPOLIS.—More American families will tour the Americas in 1939 than ever before, while they turn their backs on Europe. Barring unexpected economic reversals, 1939 will be the biggest travel year in the country's history, and should top the record five and one-half billion dollar tourist business of 1937, according to a study by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

American travel to Europe shrank 20 per cent in 1938 from the 1937 volume. Although travel agents reported a pick-up in European bookings immediately after Hitler's January speech, with its unexpectedly moderate tone, present indications are for a further shrinkage in American visits to Europe in 1939, the survey finds.

Major stimulants to domestic travel during 1939 are the New York and San Francisco World's fairs; it is estimated that 26 million visitors will see one fair or the other. Railroads and travel agencies already report large blocks of bookings for both fairs; automobile clubs are already filling members' advance requests for routings to New York and San Francisco.

However, South American travel has been climbing steadily; domestic cruise bookings jumped in the last few weeks of 1938 and have continued to gain since; it is difficult to reserve space on Hawaiian steamships for early summer sailings, as practically their entire passenger space has already been sold.

The American motorist, who despite the depression did almost as much touring in 1938 as in the record year of 1937, is due for his greatest mass pilgrimage in 1939. Automobile clubs report that many members cut short or postponed 1938 pleasure trips, in anticipation of making world's fair treks in 1939. Automobile clubs and gasoline company routing bureaus report that they have a considerable volume of inquiries already for summer vacation routings. Winter motor travel for the season just past exceeded that of the winter of 1937-38.

Air travel, which has expanded in volume in spite of business cycles, continues its steady increase.

AUTOCRACIES AND DEMOCRACIES

It is well, as the nations continue lining up for or against another war, to be clear about this matter of autocracy and democracy.

It is obvious that the ideological issue grows less clear as more nations, with differing systems, rally to one side or the other. It will become especially confused if Communist Russia openly aligns herself with Britain and France, as she may. Already there is considerable question as to the democratic quality of some of the smaller powers won over to the Franco-British side, particularly Poland. Only by a considerable stretching of the term, as we Americans use it, can Greece, Rumania or Turkey today be called democratic.

There is a good deal of truth, too, in the statement often heard nowadays, that even democracies become autocratic when waging war or preparing for war. We saw how that principle worked in America in 1917-18. France today is operating as a dictatorship, and Britain, although still holding out against military conscription, is leaning in that direction.

To be logical, we must admit that there is no clear dividing line as regards the authority of governments over the lives and activities of their people today. Government control and enforced obedience of citizens is largely a matter of degree. Autocracies and democracies, especially as war approaches, seem to shade almost insensibly into each other.

But so do stormy weather and fair weather, darkness and daylight, heat and cold, honor and dishonor, and almost any other opposites. It is needful, for clear thinking, to look at all the facts.

There is no question that the Nazi and Fascist governments aim at complete regimentation of the lives and activities of their people, in peace or war. They have nothing like our own constitutional bill of rights, nothing like the British individualism and self-expression which is not really quenched even in war time, nothing like the political spirit of the French people which, while accepting a sort of military dictatorship to focus the national powers in a crisis, still grants the dictatorial power by free parliamentary vote and limits its duration.

Then when it comes to a survey of the self-governing fringe of little nations in western Europe—Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Ireland and Switzerland—the contrast is still greater. Not one of these nations has a master. Their leaders are their servants. Their minds and souls are free. They respect themselves and their neighbors. They live as individual units, not as members of a hive or herd.

INTERNATIONAL SWAPPING

If the United States can trade a lot of surplus cotton and wheat for an emergency store of rubber and tin, why not? These articles rate high in a list, recently compiled by American experts, of foreign materials we would need greatly if we got into a war, or if a general war shut us off from such supplies.

It would kill two birds with one stone, giving us the desired surplus of vital commodities, and also unloading millions of cotton bales and hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat which are now costing money for storage, holding down prices and hindering the revival of American agriculture.

The idea of handling international trade in this way, with the government acting as buyer and seller, alarms some of our people. Few Americans like to see a governmental finger stuck so deeply into what always used to be private business. But right now it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.

In the present uncertain state of the world, it is well to have in this country a generous stock of essentials to carry us through a period of interrupted foreign trade. Some other things might be added to those mentioned, as fit materials for swapping.

CHINESE FIGHT ON

In this breathless lull between the end of the Spanish war and the possible beginning of a big European war, the war in China goes right on. And to the world's surprise, the Chinese seem now to be forcing the fighting.

Chinese troops serving the Japanese have revolted in Kaifeng and stopped a peace movement. Japanese efforts to drive British interests from China were balked. And at the same time strong forces belonging to Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist armies broke loose over a wide area, attacking Japanese garrisons in a dozen cities.

These forces have been operating not only in Honan Province, but around Nanking, Hankow and Shanghai, in the very region where the Japanese won their first triumphs. Evidently that territory in eastern China is very far from being subdued. The strongest and most numerous Chinese forces are farther to the west and southwest, where they can protect their munition supply lines.

The Chinese troops operate mostly at night, in small bands, cutting Japanese railways and roads, falling upon small garrisons and generally strafing and worrying the invaders. Competent observers lately give China at least a fifty-fifty chance to win.

BETTER EYESIGHT

Not all the news of the day is doleful. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reports that affliction has been greatly reduced as a result of educational and preventive activities. Blindness caused by one ailment alone has been cut by 75 per cent during the last thirty years. That is the trouble commonly called "babies' sore eyes," which used to cause blindness at birth on an appalling scale. Most states now have laws requiring doctors and midwives to use a protective solution in the eyes of infants at birth. There has been progress along other lines, as well, including house illumination.

For children suffering with defective eyesight, there are now sight-saving classes and schools in which special training is given with great success. Poor vision is a serious handicap to a boy or girl, but with adequate training its worst results may be warded off.

TREATMENT OF CONSTIPATION

It is now known that there are many individuals who have three bowel movements daily and others who have a bowel movement about once in two days, yet both these groups of individuals enjoy good health.

Because many animals and the members of some more or less wild native tribes have a bowel movement after each meal, some may think that this should apply to all men, but Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo Clinic, was able to show a few years ago that an individual could remain healthy with a bowel movement just twice a week.

However the general opinion that the normal individual should have at least one bowel movement daily is held by most physicians. The constipated individual is, however, quite common and constipation slows him up both mentally and physically. After mentioning the forms of constipation due to obstruction, to a sluggish gall bladder with lack of bile, to anaemia, to ptosis of the abdominal organs, to painful piles or tiny tears at lower end of bowel, Dr. T. F. Reuther, Chicago, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, gives the following common sense suggestions to prevent constipation:

1. Arise one-half hour earlier than usual.
2. Drink a glass of warm or hot water.
3. Spend 10 minutes doing exercises that will exercise chest and abdomen—bending and twisting exercises, keeping knees straight, and deep breathing exercises.
4. Eat a good breakfast including fresh or stewed fruits. The undernourished patient should take cream and butter with the meal.
5. Sit down and read for a while. This gives time for desire to go to stool to occur before going to work.
6. Take a lunch and dinner with fresh salads or cooked vegetables or fruits.
7. Go to bed one-half to an hour earlier to make up for getting up earlier.
8. If a small amount of paraffin oil is to be taken or put into rectum, this is done at bedtime.
9. So live during the day that there is no "constant" worry or mental strain or excessive physical fatigue. Don't take an hour or more of hard exercise one day and no more for a week. Spasmodic exercise and late evening engagements are unwise.

Constipation is an ailment which lowers vitality and requires the same patient treatment as other ailments.

In order to make outdoor sign posters stay stuck, it is sometimes necessary to guard against bacteria which get into the paste, reducing its adhesive quality. To combat the trouble, one manufacturer of sign paste keeps its product in pails and mixing tanks of monel, there being a tendency for bacteria to multiply in ordinary iron or wooden equipment.

In England, farmers are using monel snares for catching rabbits which would otherwise destroy their crops. Monel is used, it is said, since the damp English climate would otherwise cause the snares to deteriorate from rust.

Says His Argument Wasn't Adequately Stated in Freeman

April 13, 1939
Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Editor: The attached letter is a copy of the reply which I have made to Alderman Paul Zucca as an aftermath of our last Common Council session.

Your reporter did manage to present Mr. Zucca's side of the story but failed to adequately publish my argument.

I would appreciate your publishing of my letter and do hope that you will give it the same publicity as you did after the council meeting.

Sincerely yours,
WALTER DONNARUMA,
Alderman 6th Ward

April 13, 1939
Mr. Paul Zucca,
96 Green street,
Kingston, N. Y.

My dear Paul:

Realizing that you have been very busy with Easter finery, and of course, rehearsing your violin for the Easter Ball, I have refrained from writing you earlier to question certain objections you made at our last "Common Council" session.

You know only too well that I was not discourteous to you when I brought up the question of a public taxi stand for the uptown area. I honestly endeavored to relieve you of any embarrassment which might be your unhappy lot.

Your cry of "Aldermanic Courtesy" is frankly, very much, "Small Potatoes," and Paul, I positively will not curtail my efforts on that stand.

Paul, a number of independent taxi men operate from uptown. They are married, have families, own property, pay taxes and we in turn, receive our aldermanic salaries from a portion of these taxes. Public service demands that there be a public taxi stand somewhere uptown at a good location, in fact, you can specify the most suitable location.

Have you ever witnessed the efforts of Kingston housewives, after shopping with an armful of bundles, endeavoring to locate a cab to return home in time to prepare the evening meal. Perhaps you have not, I have.

Of course, I realize that you have been considering this matter for the past six months. Small matters such as this should not require such long deliberation. This is why we are not progressing too rapidly in the community.

You fellows who hold the reins are too content to let matters lay dormant, while I belong to the school of thought which is asking for action. Sometime soon, Paul, I am going to write you at greater length and outline a program for a "Better Kingston." Furthermore, your inference that aldermen should be interested in only their own ward is grossly wrong. Aldermen should be interested in the whole city. Can you give me a good reason why aldermen should not take an interest in the city proper?

Meanwhile, allay your fears that I am invading the First Ward. There will not be an "Auchluch" because I disapprove very much of Hitler and Mussolini tactics.

But I do want to earn my salary as an alderman and that is why I take an interest in the job, and will, as long as I am in the council.

Regards always,
WALTER DONNARUMA

Realistic Interpretation to the Monroe Doctrine Given by President in Pan-American Day Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, April 15.—Sometimes the most simple truths of tradition, when restated in the midst of a particular crisis in public affairs, take on a sensational meaning. This applies especially to the latest speech of President Roosevelt on Pan-American Day, for in it he said no more than was said more than a century ago, when the Monroe Doctrine was first announced, but the implications of its reiteration will have a profound effect in Europe today.

Commitments to war cannot be made except by the congress, and President Roosevelt knows this, but he is aware also that the Republican party, as well as the Democratic party, has affirmed time and again its adherence to the Monroe Doctrine. Even the proponents of a constitutional amendment to require a referendum before war could be declared specifically exempt attacks on the Monroe Doctrine.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, gives a realistic interpretation to the Monroe Doctrine. He points out that Canada is a part of the western hemisphere, a fact which is often ignored because of the gradually developed conception that the Monroe Doctrine was merely a means of protecting republics, when, as a matter of fact, it was a pronouncement of American aid to maintain the status quo in the western hemisphere irrespective of the form of government.

The Canadian people, ever since the League of Nations covenant of the treaty of Versailles granted them a seat in the assembly as an independent nation and ever since the United States and Canada have exchanged ministers, are regarded officially as an independent nation. But it remained for Mr. Roosevelt, in his speech at Kingston, Ontario, last summer, to pledge the cooperation of the United States in defending the territorial integrity of Canada as it would any other state or republic in the Pan-American family.

Mention by Mr. Roosevelt of that Kingston pledge was casually conveyed in his message as an example of how the nations of America cooperated with one another without raising questions of "encirclement," but it is nevertheless of tremendous importance that the President should refer again to Canada's position in world's affairs.

As pointed out in these dispatches earlier this week, if there is a world war, Canada will become England's granary and arsenal, and the German air forces and submarines would do everything possible to harass Canada or bomb her factories. Canada would certainly become involved, and when Mr. Roosevelt says the United States would feel bound to protect Canada, he is merely voicing his expectation of what the sentiment in Congress would be in the event that our northern neighbor became the victim of outside attack.

The President was careful to mince no words about resisting attacks for the military or naval forces of other nations, and the exact phraseology of his public pledge is worth reproducing, because it will have historic importance:

"The American peace which we celebrate today has no quality of weakness in it. We are prepared to maintain it, and to defend it to the fullest extent of our strength, matching force to force if any attempt is made to subvert our institutions or to impair the independence of any one of our group."

This is as plain a statement of military alliance for defense of the western hemisphere as could be written. The President then goes on to discuss economic force, recognizing, indeed, that this is the way the Nazi propaganda and barter deals have sought to cause dissension as between Latin-American states and the United States. He says:

"Should the method of attack be that of economic pressure, I pledge that my own country will also give economic support, so that no American nation need surrender any fraction of its sovereign freedom to maintain its economic welfare. This is the spirit and intent of the declaration of Lima: 'The solidarity of the continent.'"

There are two other passages in the address which indicate careful preparation on the part of the secretary of state, Cordell Hull, and the officials of the department of state, in the preliminary work that must have been done before such an important pronouncement could be made. It was the assertion of economic unity in the world as it relates to trade and even to international wars fought across oceans as against colonies or affiliates of European empires. This excerpt is especially interesting in its obvious attempt to refute recently expressed "isolationist" sentiment:

"Beyond question, within a scant few years air fleets will cross the ocean as easily as today they cross the closed European seas. Economic functioning of the world becomes increasingly a unit; no interruption of it anywhere can fail, in the future, to disrupt economic life everywhere."

Mr. Roosevelt's address will hardly stop the speeches of opposition in Congress which lately have been directed toward him on the assumption that he is indulging in war talk for political reasons—an argument, incidentally, which is also made by the Nazi press. But this pronouncement and pledge of mutual defense made by a president of the United States at this moment in world affairs will convey to Latin America and to Canada a profound reassurance, which, in the sense that it promotes security on this continent, tends to stabilize trade and monetary relationships. And this is entirely apart from the meaning Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini may get out of it when they look overseas in vain for opportunities in Latin America to get the export trade they need so vitally to maintain their armament preparations.

Local Plant Produces Equipment for Modern Road Building

Paving the Way for Making Improved Modern Highways

Factory Machines Are Also Product Of City Industry

Various Units Are Shipped to Foreign Countries and Widely Used in Local Area

Trails blazed by American pioneers, and others leading deep into dark jungle regions of foreign lands, today have become main arteries to further the march of civilization and modern progress.

Many of these routes have developed in slow stages even after the invention of the first "horseless buggy," and others still bear vestiges of more primitive times.

Road building in America, and other progressive nations of the world, however, has advanced rapidly since the turn of the century, and a local industry has played a prominent part in literally paving the way for progress.

'Reliance' Is the Name

"Reliance" is the trade name on the many types of machines made by the Universal Road Machinery Company of 27 Emerick street and this will be found on a variety of mechanical units on road construction jobs here and abroad.

Shipments of road-making equipment were made within the year to such distant points as South Africa and South America and others have been sent to virtually every other nation in the world.

Many roads of Ulster county and numerous others throughout the state and nation were built with the aid of machines turned out by the local concern which began on a modest basis approximately 40 years ago.

First Plant

Julian Scholl first started the plant which has since become the Universal Road Machinery Co., at about the turn of the century, and it has been under its present name and management for about 30 years.

The concern makes all types of road-making equipment and a variety of other machine units. Included in its list of products are rock crushers, bucket elevators, revolving screens, street sweepers, scarifiers, storage bins, pulverizers, car unloaders, chip spreaders, heating kettles, bin gates, wash boxes, feeders, belt conveyors, grizzlies, air separators and coal breakers.

Special equipment designed or built to the specifications of customers are made at the plant and recently the concern made several machines for the mushroom canning factory of the Knaust Brothers at Cossackie.

Between 40 and 50 men are regularly employed at the plant and most of these are skilled workmen.

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds of steel is kept in stock at the factory and some of the gray iron used in the plant is bought from the two local foundries. Other gray iron is bought from a Poughkeepsie foundry and steel is purchased from at least six companies.

Patterns for Machines

Patterns for the various machines are made at the factory and some of the parts are purchased from other concerns.

Work at the Universal plant requires the services of men of skill and stamina. Some of the machines range in weight from three tons to 22 tons and many of the single parts of the bigger machines weigh more than a ton.

Sturdy machines in the plant pound and mould the units of the various parts and their handling requires the use of cranes, conveyors and a miniature railroad system which operates within the buildings and extends from one department to another on the property.

Every township in the county uses road-making equipment made at the local factory and several pieces are owned by the Ulster County Department of Highways. The City of Kingston has also bought equipment from the plant and many municipalities of the area have built roads with "Reliance" machines.

Stone Crushers Manufactured

Stone crushers used in area quarries have been made at the plant and large orders of similar equipment have come from contractors in all parts of the nation. Sand and gravel washing and handling equipment represents one of the major products of the company and these have been sold on many large construction jobs.

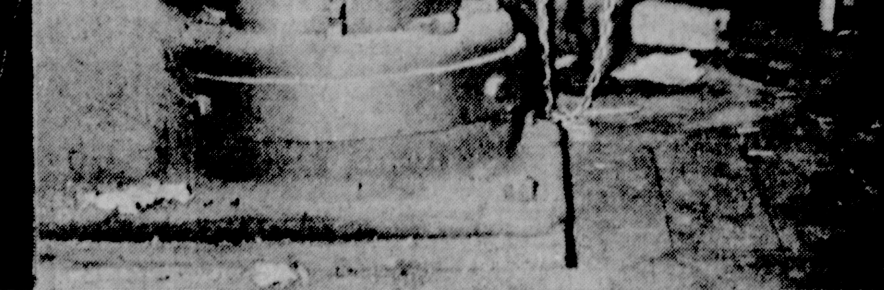

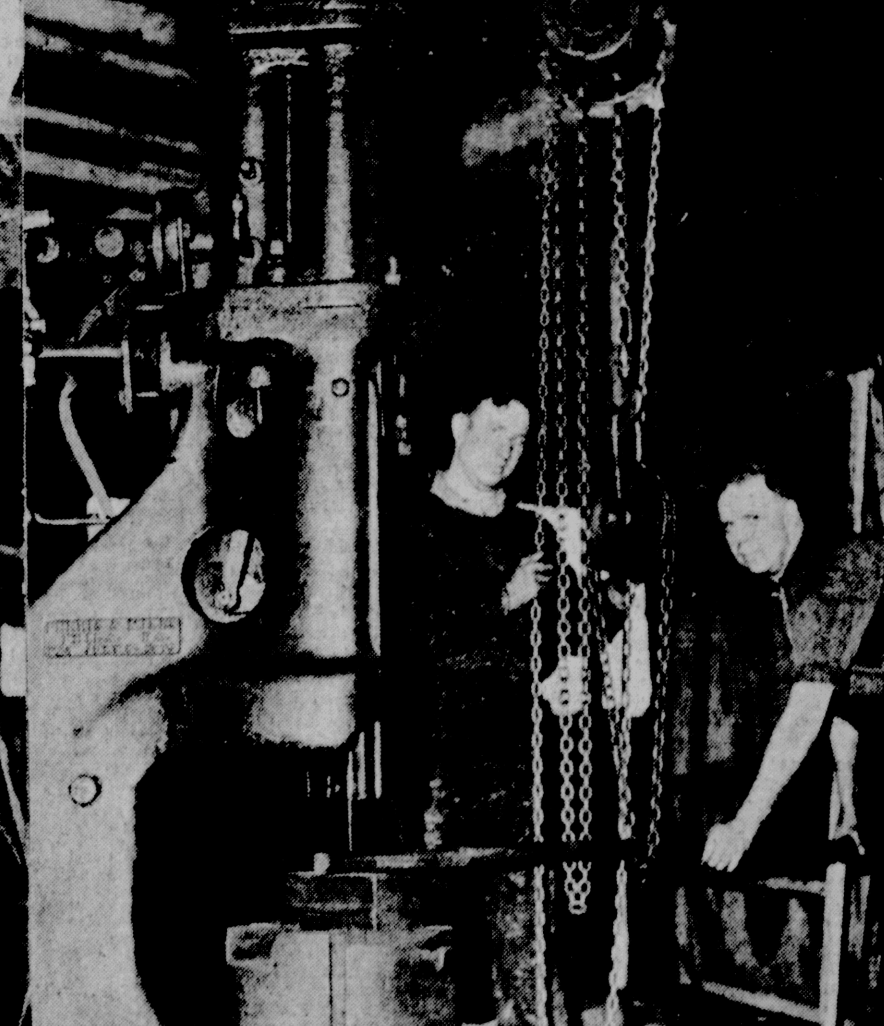

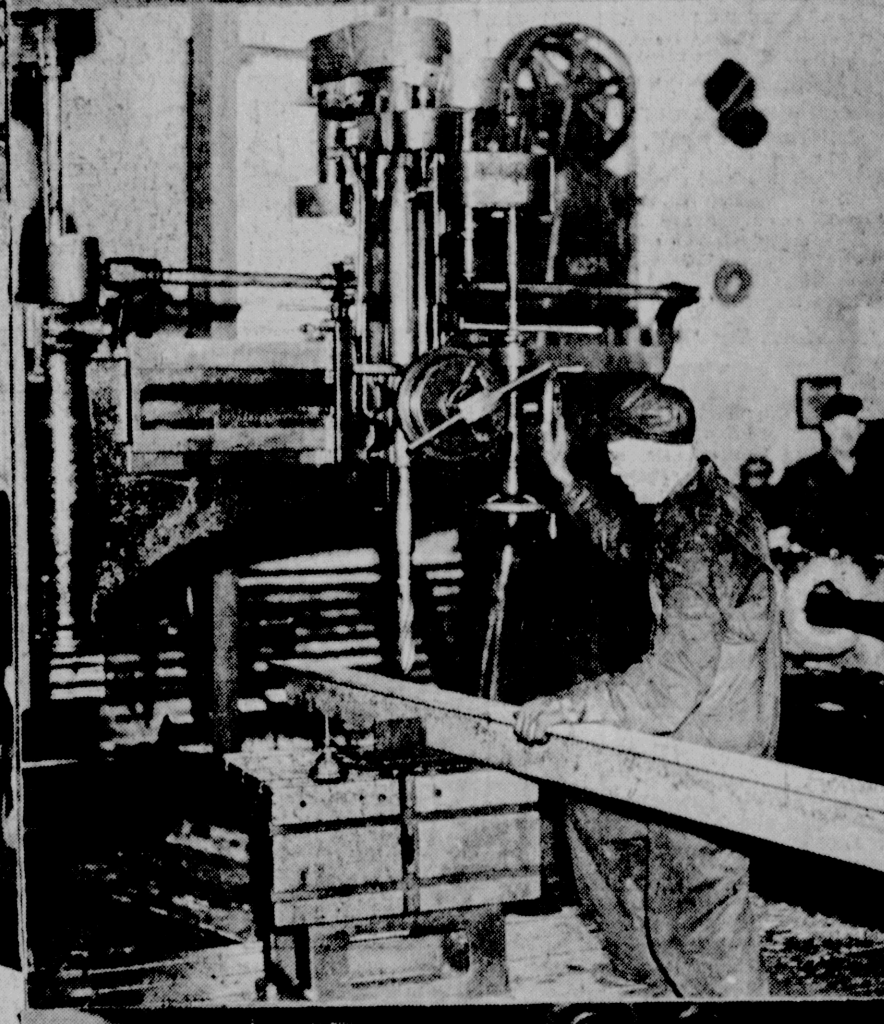

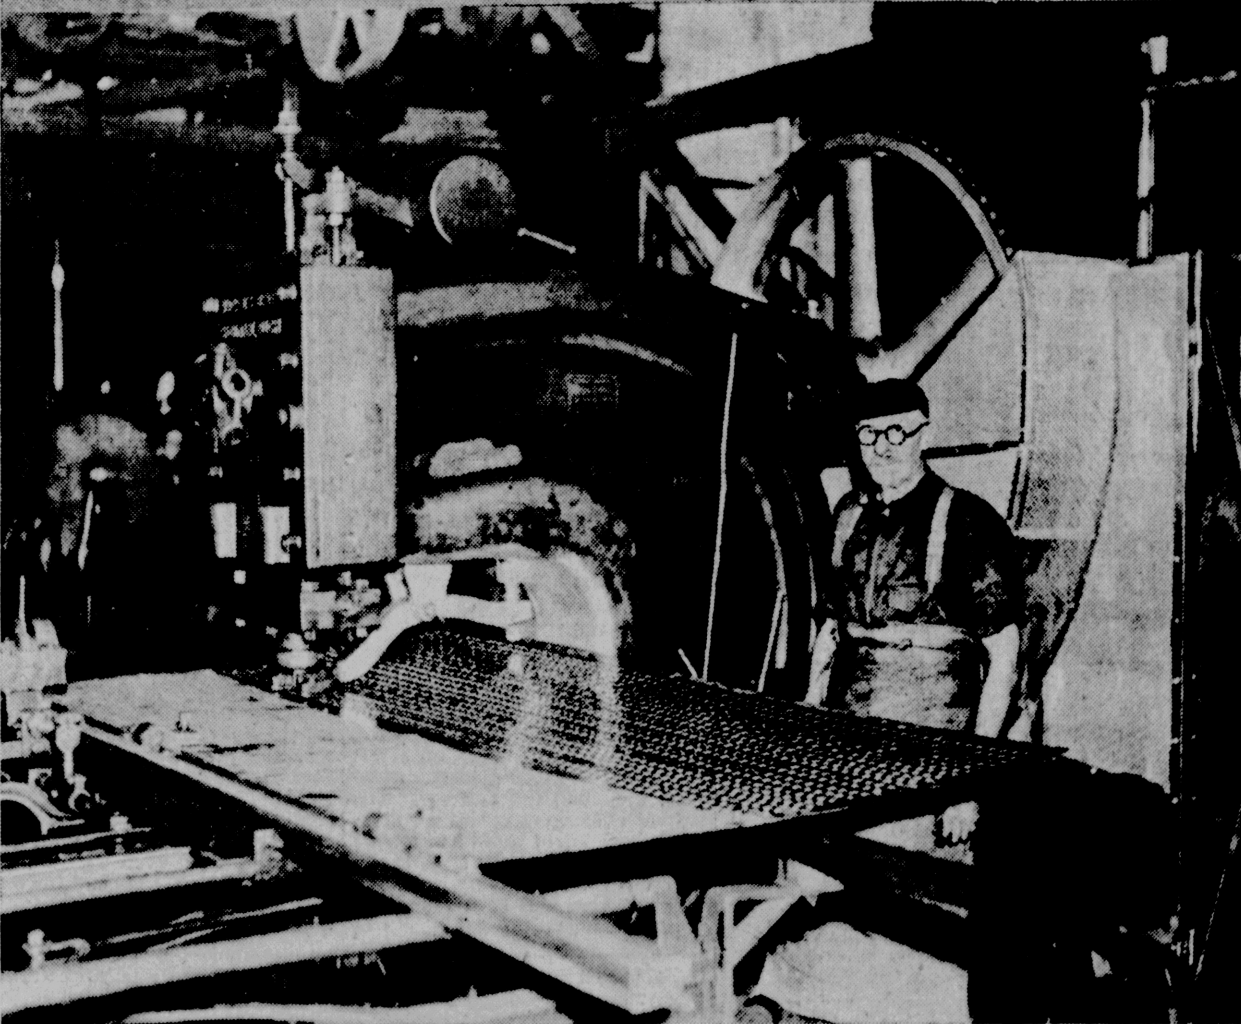

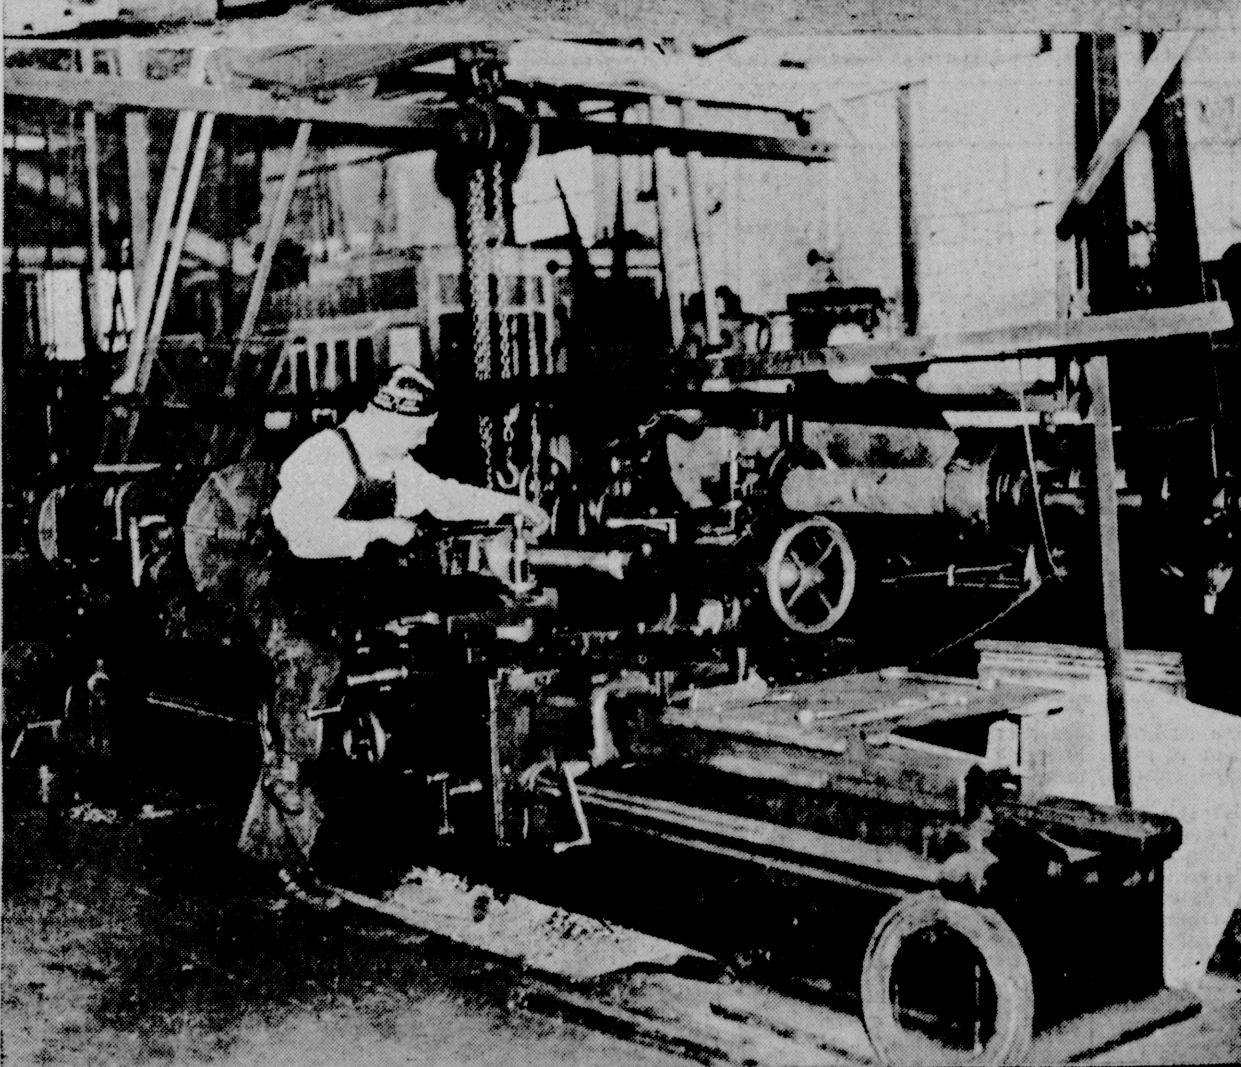

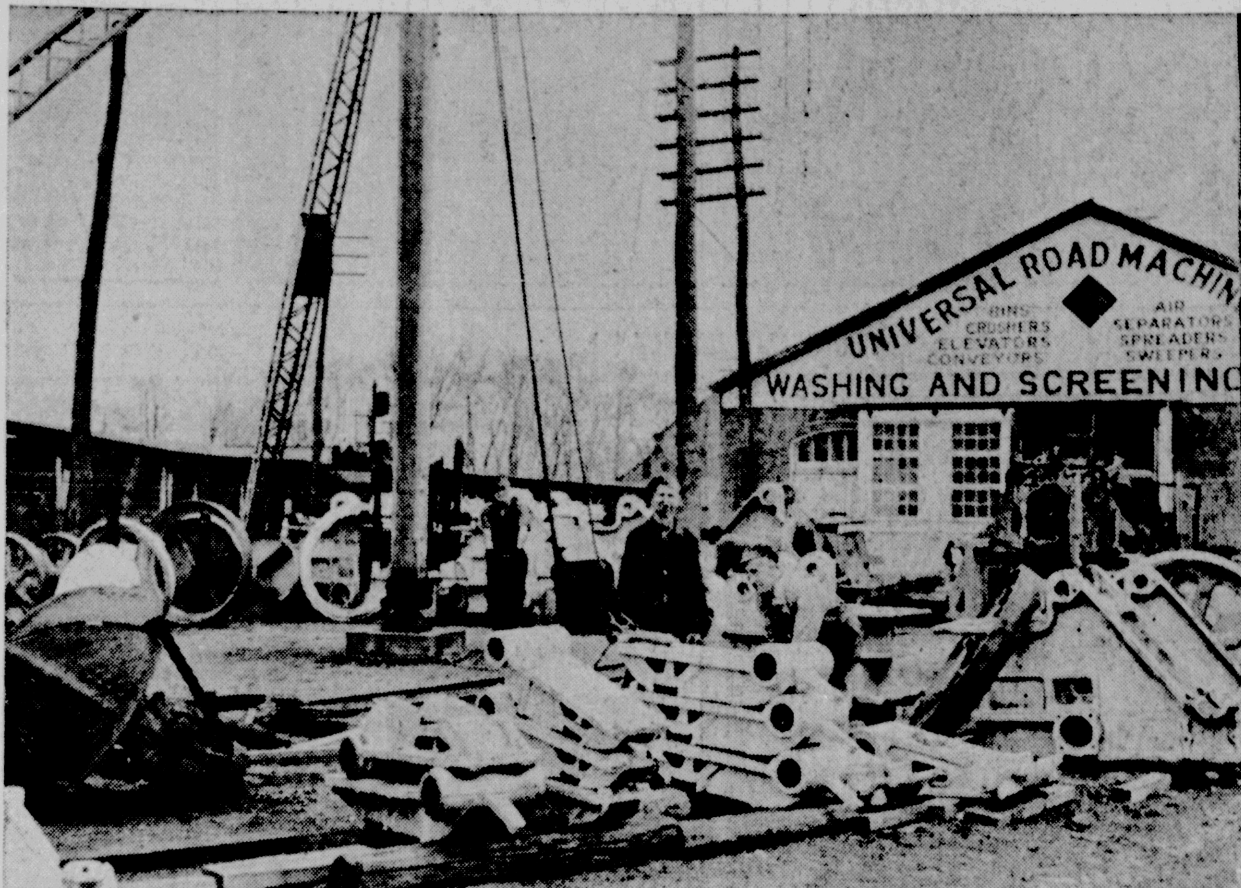

The company recently has been furnishing plant equipment for the cement mills at Rosendale and part of this order is currently being filled. Similar and sundry orders have come from many other plants of the area and in various sections of the state and country.

Equipment for the Knaust Brothers factory at Cossackie included conveyors, tanks and screens. Such work is mostly in stainless steel and the company takes great pride in its sheet metal department.

Steel is cut to fill various specifications on huge rotary shears and specially designed cutting machines and more solid metal parts such as drill stems for drilling rock are pounded into shape after the metal is submitted to intense heat, by automatic pounding hammers.

Work on steel is done in the plant for the Ingersoll-Rand and Timpkin companies and many orders of these concerns are placed through the Universal Company.

Other heavy machines punch

All types of heavy machinery required in modern road building are made at the Universal Road Machinery of Kingston. The concern, although specializing in road machinery, also fills orders for factory machinery made to specifications and other sundry equipment. Products produced in the local plant are sold in all parts of the world and many roads of the county, state and nation have been manufactured there. Shown above at the top, left is a view of the yard in front of the machine shop, with various types of machine parts in the foreground and a view of the main building in the background. Top right shows a workman with an electric arc torch used in cutting steel. The light is so brilliant that a special guard for the eyes is worn by workmen who use it. At center, left, is one of the machines used in repairing and shaping parts and at right, center is one of the heavy pressure machines with a drill for punching holes in metal. Another perforating machine, used extensively for making the heavy metal screens, is shown at the bottom left. The bottom right picture shows workmen at one of the large automatic hammers in the plant.

holes in the metal for screening units such as those used in classifying the sizes of crushed stone and coal.

Repair Operations

Repair work is done at the plant on heavier machine parts for various concerns using such equipment and a variety of special work is always under way. The company is now furnishing a plant in Orange county with equipment and another recent order calls for the construction of a 100-ton steel bin. Orders from foreign nations recently included one for 12 street sweepers which were shipped to South Africa.

Another major product of the company is its air separator which is made in sizes ranging from 30 inches to 18 feet. This is a specially designed product and is used wherever fine separation of materials is required.

This product of Universal is known as the Gayco-Reliance and has been vastly improved during the past five years. Such centrifugal air separators now make it possible to use separators on materials which have been a serious problem to manufacturers. They represent the latest in design and are constructed to allow for quick, positive adjustment.

Reliance crusher units are manufactured in 10 sizes and can be supplied for either portable or stationary use. Three of the heavier units, however, are not practical for use on wheels, and are furnished for stationary plants only.

Used on B. W. S. Jobs

Machinery made by the local company is now in use on some of the construction jobs in the building of New York city's expanding water works system, and the units for such work is generally purchased by the various contractors.

All parts and machines made at the plant are given physical tests before shipment at the factory laboratory. A careful inspection is made of each unit and a detailed record is filed with each order, so that orders for repairs can be filled promptly and accurately at any time.

A complete stock of parts is kept at the plant so that shipments of any standard repairs can be made within two hours after the order is received.

Engineers work constantly to improve all units made by the company and frequently designs are simplified and the efficiency of the product increased wherever it is found possible.

A New York office is maintained by the company and one unit of the sales force operates from there. Two men also travel out of the local office and the concern has at least one agent in every state in the nation.

These men fill the orders with various contractors and public works departments to provide the type of modern machines which has made possible many wide, smooth roads and streets in the vast network of modern thoroughfares.

Removing Grass Stains

To remove grass stains from washable material dip it as quickly as possible into lukewarm water and mild soap suds. Rub until the stains come out and then rinse in clear, warm water. If the material is not washable, sponge the stains with denatured alcohol. Rub gently until the stain disappears.

Wall Stain Remover

To remove fresh stains from light-colored walls rub them lightly with a mild soap powder mixed with cold water. Remove with clear water applied on a clean cloth and then wipe dry with another clean soft cloth. Removing stains and spots as soon as they appear will help keep down painting bills.

A recent development in the commercial production of high purity chemicals is the use of platinum-catalyzed base metals for processing equipment. Since many of the chemicals are highly corrosive, this precious metal performs the double function of protecting the equipment from deterioration and of safeguarding the products from contamination.

Spring Concert By Mendelssohn Club Eams Tributes

The Mendelssohn Club closed its 36th season last evening with the annual spring concert given in the high school auditorium, where Mary and Virginia Drane, who violinists, and Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, pianist, were the participating artists.

The Drane sisters played Handel's Sonata No. 3 in G minor, "Liebesfreud" by Kreisler, "Tango" by Albeniz-Ricci, "Perpetual Motion" by Rite, "Romance" by Faure, and "Navarra" by Sarasate. Dr. Spross appeared in one group of piano solos which included, "Etude Romantique" by Chopin, "Nocturne" by Respi, "Scherzo-Valse" by Moszkowski. The men's club was heard in four groups of selections, directed by Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh with Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., as the accompanist.

The usual large and enthusiastic audience filled the auditorium nearly to capacity and many expressed the opinion that the performance was one of the best, a statement which is made each year, as each succeeding performance continues to please.

The duo-violinists were charming young ladies whose playing merited praise, not only for the technical skill and tone production, but also for the communicative understanding of their interpretations. The duo-violin ensemble in itself new to the concert stage, was also new to a program by the Mendelssohn Club as instrumentalists are not generally featured on these programs.

The distinguished honorary member of the club, Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, accompanied the violinists and made the program complete with his brilliant piano solos.

The men sang with their usual earnestness and enjoyment, and, barring a weakness in the tenor section and the protrusion of a tenor voice in the last two numbers, gave a performance of credit to the high standing of quality maintained by them.

The program opened with the singing, before the curtains parted, of "Hail Friends of Music," the theme song of the Associated Glee Clubs of America. The first group began with the choral "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach, "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn, and "The Hundred Pipers" by Whiting. The Bach choral and "Land's End" by Grieg, "Allah's Holiday" by Friml, and "The Autumn Sea" by Gerike were the best from the musical standpoint. Rolland Heirman was the incidental soloist in "Land's End." Of the lighter numbers, "Uncertain Obadiah" by Dr. Spross, "I Love Life" by Mana-Zucca, and "Border Ballad" by Maender, were favorites of the audience.

Near the end of the program a beautiful tribute was made to the memory of Arthur C. Connelly and Bernard W. Healy, former members of the club, by the singing of "On Great Lone Hills" by Sibelius, after which there was a short interval of silence, the audience refraining from applauding.

The Mendelssohn Club has also announced that on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, July 1 and 2, it will have the opportunity and pleasure of participating in the greatest of all American male chorus concerts, to be held at the New York World's Fair. One of the four men selected to conduct this mammoth male chorus will be its own director, Dr. Tidmarsh.

Following the concert the members of the Mendelssohn Club and their friends gathered in the Crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel for the annual supper. Here a feeling of merriment prevailed as officers of the club cheerfully and good-naturedly quipped one another. The speakers at the dinner were E. V. K. Schutt, president of the Mendelssohn Club, N. LeVan Haver, vice-president, Mayor Conrad J. Heislman and Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh.

Paul Zucca's orchestra played during the dinner and for the group singing of popular and favorite songs, a traditional feature of the after concert supper, and one thoroughly enjoyed by all present who made the rafters ring with happy singing.

Also during the evening the Drane sisters graciously consented to play again and favored with two numbers.

Members of the Sunshine Club of Kingston entertained Friday evening at Sahler's Sanitarium for the patients and members of the nursing staff. The program was presented in costume and directed by Gladys Avery, with Mrs. Matthew Bence playing the accompaniment. The program included vocal and piano selections and tap dances. County Theatre Joins Intercounty Dramatic League

In response to an invitation by the "Masquers Dramatic Club" of Liberty, representatives of the Ulster County Theatre Association met with the dramatic clubs from Port Jervis, Middletown and Liberty on April 4, and joined the "Intercounty Dramatic League." The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Meola of Middletown. Officers elected for the current year were Mr. Mead of Middletown, president, and Miss Denning of Port Jervis, secretary.

The purpose of the organization is to further the cause of the theatre groups by submitting to contest, once a year, a one act play, which is chosen, acted and directed solely by members of the respective clubs. They are judged by an impartial committee, sufficiently competent to compare all phases of theatre presentation. This plan not only provides interest and entertainment for the groups, but most important is an unique source of educational criticism which is so necessary to any such group.

William Scheniman, president of the Ulster County Theatre Association, states that it was good to hear of the interest and following which these dramatic clubs also enjoy in their cities. Their spring and fall productions are looked forward to with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Measured in terms of years, the Ulster county group is the infant of the league, but through the interest of the members and the encouragement of a great many of the people of Kingston, the group feels that it is justified in taking a place alongside of the more seasoned ones.

LET'S do something with windows! They can be as charming as you please, but we'll decorate them to suit the room. (Rooms are like individuals, and window treatments must cater to their personalities!)

What kind of rodding will you have? Plain flat extension rods? Curved rods? Draw rods? Cranes? Or wooden poles and rings? Drapery will conform to rodding, of course.

The next step is fascinating. There are many alternatives in decorating any window. Shall it be straight tailored drapery, or tie-backs, or loop-ups, or curtains with cornices or valances? The latter allow even more variety for valances may be plain, cascade, boxed, or swags

Ulster County Day At World's Fair Monday, June 26

Monday, June 26, will be Ulster County-Kingston Day at the New York World's Fair.

The change of date from June 19, as originally set, was finally decided upon this morning, following the return to Kingston last night of Albert Kurti, who had been in New York City conferring with World's Fair officials on the subject.

Mr. Kurti was in conference with Howard MacKrell, director of special events for the fair and with Rufus C. Van Aken, who has charge of arrangements for the Ulster County Society dinner to be held on Ulster County Day.

Mr. MacKrell said "We will do anything you want us to do," and yesterday tentatively set June 26 as the day for participation of Ulster county people, as a whole, in the fair. Mr. Van Aken said that the change of date would not interfere with his arrangements.

This morning Mr. Kurti conferred with a number of local people, including Mayor Haselmann, H. H. Agent Edmund Bower and others, all agreeing that the change would be for the best, the matter was settled and all officials have been notified to that effect.

The change already had been approved by the recently formed Ulster County Council, the matter having been brought up at its meeting Wednesday night, when it was found that the June 19 date would conflict with Regatta examinations in the schools and would make it impossible for many of the students to participate.

Presumably the parade committee of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival will now proceed with the suggestion originally made to have a competition among the high school bands of the county, the winning band to be taken to the World's Fair on Ulster county day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stillwell and daughter, Georgiana have returned from a trip to Washington, D. C.

Guests at the home of Charles Churchwell on Easter Sunday were Mrs. Billian Sutherland of Walden, Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend and family, of Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. George Saunders and daughter of Walkkill.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 15 (AP)—Faint peace hopes once more revived Wall Street sentiment today and the stock market put on a rally of 1 to 4 points.

Early reports President Roosevelt had made a plea to Hitler and Mussolini to halt the string of war crises that have been disturbing international business and industry served to prop prices at the start.

Subsequent release of the text of the messages to the dictators, asking for a 10-year moratorium on invasions, brought for a brief period while traders crowded around the news tickers to read the words of the Chief Executive.

There was a later pickup in dealings as most in the boardrooms placed a constructive interpretation on the administration's move.

Bonds trailed stocks on the reversal of trend. Commodities were uneven.

Despite several slow-down in the two-hour proceedings, the turnover in stocks approximated 600,000 shares.

Prominent stocks on the rebound were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, du Pont, General Electric, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison.

Foreign Markets Inactive, Weaker

Foreign markets were inactive and weaker Friday as there were reports of military operations in the centers of disturbance in Europe and stocks on the New York Exchange opened sharply lower.

Industrial averages being off two points from Thursday's close. Heaviest trading was in the first hour, following which there was little activity and few changes, until the last hour when the best prices of the day were established. The close showed a loss of 1.31 points for industrial issues in the Dow-Jones index.

Rails declined 0.40 point during the day, to 25.08 and utilities were off 0.30 point, to 22.01. Volume was 620,000 shares, smallest since March 29.

The London market was weak, although selling was small and the sharp decline in prices was attributed to nervous continental liquidation. There was all around weakness on the Amsterdam Bourse; prices on the Paris market closed weak in inactive trading.

A new high for raw sugar and an eight-year high for silk contracts featured commodity markets yesterday. Silk went to $23.9 1/2 a pound. Rubber lost about 20 points. Wheat futures were mixed, Chicago closing 1/4 higher to 1 1/2 lower. Cotton closed one to three points lower on foreign liquidation.

There are more favorable reports from the automobile field. It is stated that figures on sales for the first 10 days of April indicate that the pick-up in the last part of March is continuing and as a result at least a partial restoration of the March cut in production is expected next week.

Present signs April output appears likely to reach 340,000 to 375,000 units. This would compare with around 385,000 last month and 238,129 a year ago.

With the Easter shopping as a stimulant department store sales throughout the country made remarkable gains during the first week last year. The average gain over last year for the country as a whole, was 22 per cent. Atlanta and Kansas City districts showed the largest percentage of gain over 1938, the advance being 38 per cent. For the New York district the gain was 13.4 per cent.

The government is studying the problem of handling billions of dollars in foreign investments, balances and gold, in the United States in the event of an international crisis such as war, in order and stability on American markets. Treasury report shows that at the end of 1938 total investments held by foreigners was over $3,318,900,000. In addition to this there was something like $2,003,932,000 in short-term balances, including bank deposits.

Earnings of most machine tool firms for the first quarter of 1939 are expected to be ahead of those for the final period of 1938.

Bayou Cigars had first quarter net of $287,976, or 68 cents a share, vs. net in first quarter of 1938 of $174,523, 37 cents a share.

Underwood, Elliott Fisher report net $560,163 for the first quarter, up slightly from 1938 quarter.

Noranda Mines had net for the March 31 quarter equal to $1.27 a share, vs. $1.24 a share year ago.

Orders booked by Electric Storage Battery for first three months show a 20 per cent gain over the first quarter of 1938.

Union Oil of California declared a dividend of 25 cents; previously paid 30 cents quarterly. General Outdoor Advertising ordered $1 on Class A stock and regular quarterly of $1.50 on preferred.

Bridge and Poker Lead in Card Games, Survey Shows

CHICAGO.—A devoted following in rural areas of the Midwest and West was instrumental in ranking auction bridge as the country's third most popular card game. It was shown by a survey of clubs and social organizations recently completed.

In the nation-wide tabulation, auction gave way only to contract bridge, which is currently Number One card game, and to perennially favored poker.

Two old favorites, pinocle and rummy, battled it out for fourth honors with rummy coming out on top in the ratings. Games such as hearts, 500, whist and solitaire all have their staunch supporters. It was shown, but trailed the leaders by a considerable margin.

There are 42 different card games keeping America entertained at present, according to the poll. Some are favored in certain sections—such as schafkopf (sheephead) in Wisconsin. Others are practically unheard of outside limited areas.

Examples of these guerrilla bull and hoof and mouth, which obviously came from the cattle country, and card games called fiery cross, bonanza, datta and squeeze which can be traced to no particular localities.

Old Lithograph Prints

Record of Development
The record of American development would be incomplete without the lithographic advertising prints of the Nineteenth century. Although originally published to be given away by the company or business man whose name they bore, they are not of inferior work, in some instances, are the only pictorial records of their kind.

Although generally disregarded by collectors, these advertisements supply graphic information as to what was happening in the United States during the lithographic period, writes Thomas Hamilton Ormsbee in American Collector.

For instance, the English print makers depicted many coaching scenes in their sporting subjects; practically all of the American prints showing this mode of transportation were brought out to spread the reputations and gain passengers for individual stage-coach lines.

Clearly shown, many of the most interesting phases of the gold rush development would be totally lacking were it not for the prints issued for advertising purposes. Further, one has only to observe the commercial information contained in the titles of some of the clipper ship and early steamship prints to realize that they must have originally been produced as advertisements and distributed as such.

a safe highway which cannot be obstructed by bill-boards or other obstructions. In addition the city claims the measure is in the interest of health in that no residences or businesses will be close to the water line and endanger health through contamination.

Ulster county and the town of Wawarsing did not seriously enter objection but asked to withhold consideration pending further conference with county and town officials.

The city of New York contended that any damage to adjacent property through relocation of the highway or to property which might not be located directly on the new road as a matter for the commission to fix.

Public utilities objected to the plans, not too strenuously because of the nature of the plans, but rather on the grounds that they were not being given wide enough rights by the city on relocated lines. The main utility lines will run on the north shore of the reservoir where the greater population is. The city of New York contended that it was willing to give any reasonable right to the utility companies to string lines to meet consumer needs but

It is well, as the nations continue lining up for or against another war, to be clear about this matter of autocracy and democracy. It is obvious that the ideological issue grows less clear as more nations, with differing systems, rally to one side or the other. It will become especially confused if Communist Russia openly aligns herself with Britain and France, as she may. Already there is considerable question as to the democratic quality of some of the smaller powers won over to the Franco-British side, particularly Poland. Only by a considerable stretching of the term, as we Americans use it, can Greece, Rumania or Turkey today be called democratic.

There is a good deal of truth, too, in the statement often heard nowadays, that even democracies become autocratic when waging war or preparing for war. We saw how that principle worked in America in 1917-18. France today is operating as a dictatorship, and Britain, although still holding out against military conscription, is leaning in that direction.

To be logical, we must admit that there is no clear dividing line as regards the authority of governments over the lives and activities of their people today. Government control and enforced obedience of citizens is largely a matter of degree. Autocracies and democracies, especially as war approaches, seem to shade almost insensibly into each other.

But so do stormy weather and fair weather, darkness and daylight, heat and cold, honor and dishonor, and almost any other opposites. It is needful, for clear thinking, to look at all the facts.

There is no question that the Nazi and Fascist governments aim at complete regimentation of the lives and activities of their people, in peace or war. They have nothing like our own constitutional bill of rights, nothing like the British individualism and self-expression which is not really quenched even in war time, nothing like the political spirit of the French people which, while accepting a sort of military dictatorship to focus the national powers in a crisis, still grants the dictatorial power by free parliamentary vote and limits its duration.

Then when it comes to a survey of the self-governing fringe of little nations in western Europe—Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Ireland and Switzerland—the contrast is still greater. Not one of these nations has a master. Their leaders are free. They can respect themselves and their neighbors. They live as individual units, not as members of a hive or herd.

INTERNATIONAL SWAPPING

If the United States can trade a lot of surplus cotton and wheat for an emergency store of rubber and tin, why not? These articles rate high in a list, recently compiled by American experts, of foreign materials we would need greatly if we got into a war, or if a general war shut us off from such supplies.

It would kill two birds with one stone, giving us the desired surplus of vital commodities, and also unloading millions of cotton bales and hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat which are now costing money for storage, holding down prices and hindering the revival of American agriculture.

The idea of handling international trade in this way, with the government acting as buyer and seller, alarms some of our people. Few Americans like to see a governmental finger stuck so deeply into what always used to be private business. But right now it is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.

In the present uncertain state of the world, it is well to have in this country a generous stock of essentials to carry us through a period of interrupted foreign trade. Some other things might be added to those mentioned, as fit materials for swapping.

CHINESE FIGHT ON

In this breathless lull between the end of the Spanish war and the possible beginning of a big European war, the war in China goes right on. And to the world's surprise,

ON THE BRINK

Chinese troops serving the Japanese have revolted in Kaifeng and stopped a peace movement. Japanese efforts to drive British interests from China were balked. And at the same time strong forces belonging to Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist armies broke loose over a wide area, attacking Japanese garrisons in a dozen cities.

These forces have been operating not only in Honan Province, but around Nanking, Hankow and Shanghai, in the very region where the Japanese won their first triumphs. Evidently that territory in eastern China is very far from being subdued. The strongest and most numerous Chinese forces are farther to the west and southwest, where they can protect their munition supply lines.

The Chinese troops operate mostly at night, in small bands, cutting Japanese railways and generally strafing and worrying the invaders. Competent observers lately give China at least a fifty-fifty chance to win.

BETTER EYESIGHT

Not all the news of the day is doleful. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reports that affliction has been greatly reduced as a result of educational and preventive activities. Blindness caused by one ailment alone has been cut by 75 per cent during the last thirty years. That is the trouble commonly called "babies' sore eyes," which used to cause blindness at birth on an appalling scale. Most states now have laws requiring doctors and midwives to use a protective solution in the eyes of infants at birth. There has been progress along other lines, as well, including house illumination.

For children suffering with defective eyesight, there are now sight-saving classes and schools in which special training is given with great success. Poor vision is a serious handicap to a boy or girl, but with adequate training its worst results may be warded off.

Americans have never been licked in a military war; are they going to be licked in an economic one?

TREATMENT OF CONSTIPATION

It is now known that there are many individuals who have three bowel movements daily and others who have a bowel movement about once in two days, yet both these groups of individuals enjoy good health.

Because many animals and the members of some more or less wild native tribes have a bowel movement after each meal, some may think that this should apply to all men, but Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo Clinic, was able to show a few years ago that an individual could remain healthy with a bowel movement just twice a week.

However the general opinion that the normal individual should have at least one bowel movement daily is held by most physicians. The constipated individual is, however, quite common and constipation slows him up both mentally and physically. After mentioning the forms of constipation due to obstruction, to a sluggish gall bladder with lack of bile, to anemia, to stasis of the abdominal organs, to painful piles or tiny tears at lower end of bowel, Dr. T. F. Reuther, Chicago, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, gives the following common sense suggestions to prevent constipation:

1. Arise one-half hour earlier than usual.
2. Drink a glass of warm exercises that will exercise chest and abdomen—bending and twisting exercises, keeping knees straight, and deep breathing exercises.
3. Eat a good breakfast including fresh or stewed fruits. The undernourished patient should take cream and butter with the meal.
4. Sit down and read for a while. This gives time for desire to go to stool to occur before going to work.
5. Take a lunch and dinner with fresh salads or cooked vegetables or fruits.
6. Go to bed one-half to an hour earlier to make up for getting up earlier.
7. A small amount of paraffin oil is to be taken or put into rectum, this is done at bedtime.
8. So live during the day that there is no "constant" worry or mental strain or excessive physical fatigue. Don't take an hour or more of hard exercise one day and no more for a week. Spasmodic exercise and late evening engagements are unwise.

Constipation is an ailment which lowers vitality and requires the same patient treatment as other ailments.

Says His Argument Wasn't Adequately Stated in Freeman

April 13, 1939
Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Editor: The attached letter is a copy of the reply which I have made to Alderman Paul Zucca as an aftermath of our last Common Council session.

Your reporter did manage to present Mr. Zucca's side of the story but failed to adequately publish my argument.

I would appreciate your publishing of my letter and do hope that you will give it the same publicity as you did after the council meeting.

Sincerely yours,
WALTER DONNARUMA,
Alderman 6th Ward

April 13, 1939

Mr. Paul Zucca,
98 Green street,
Kingston, N. Y.

My dear Paul:
Realizing that you have been very busy with Easter finery, and of course, rehearsing your violin for the Easter Ball, I have refrained from writing you earlier to question certain objections you made at our last "Common Council" session.

You know only too well that I was not discourteous to you when I brought up the question of a public taxi stand for the uptown area. I honestly endeavored to relieve you of any embarrassment which might be your unhappy lot. Your cry of "Aldermanic Courtesy" is frankly, very much "Small Potatoes," and Paul, I positively will not curtail my efforts on that stand.

Paul, a number of independent taxi owners operate from uptown. These men are married, have families, own property, pay taxes and we in turn, receive our aldermanic salaries from a portion of these taxes. Public service demands that there be a public taxi stand somewhere uptown at a good location, in fact, you can specify the most suitable location.

Have you ever witnessed the efforts of Kingston housewives, after shopping with an armful of bundles, endeavoring to locate a cab to return home in time to prepare the evening meal. Perhaps you have not, I have.

Of course, I realize that you have been considering this matter for the past six months. Small matters such as this should not require such long deliberation. This is why we are not progressing so rapidly in the community. You fellows who hold the reins are too content to let matters lay dormant, while I belong to the school of thought which is asking for action. Sometime soon, Paul, I am going to write you at greater length and outline a program for a "Better Kingston."

Furthermore, your inference that aldermen should be interested in only their own ward is grossly wrong. Aldermen should be interested in the whole city. Can you give me a good reason why aldermen should not take an interest in the city proper?

Meanwhile, allay your fears that I am invading the First Ward. There will not be an "Auchliss" because I disapprove very much of Hitler and Mussolini tactics. But I do want to earn my salary as an alderman and that is why I take an interest in the job, and will, as long as I am in the council.

Regards always,
WALTER DONNARUMA

Realistic Interpretation to the Monroe Doctrine Given by President in Pan-American Day Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, April 15.—Sometimes the most simple truths of tradition, when restated in the midst of a particular crisis in public affairs, take on a sensational meaning. This applies especially to the latest speech of President Roosevelt on Pan-American Day, for in it he said no more than was said more than a century ago, when the Monroe Doctrine was first announced, but the implications of its reiteration will have a profound effect in Europe today.

Commitments to war cannot be made except by the congress, and President Roosevelt knows this, but he is aware also that the Republican party, as well as the Democratic party, has affirmed time and again its adherence to the Monroe Doctrine. Even the proponents of a constitutional amendment to require a referendum before war could be declared specifically exempt attacks on the Monroe Doctrine.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, gives a realistic interpretation to the Monroe Doctrine. He points out that Canada is a part of the western hemisphere, a fact which is often ignored because of the gradually developed conception that the Monroe Doctrine was merely a means of protecting republics, when, as a matter of fact, it was a pronouncement of American aid to maintain the status quo in the western hemisphere irrespective of the form of government.

The Canadian people, ever since the League of Nations covenant of the treaty of Versailles granted them a seat in the assembly as an independent nation and ever since the United States and Canada have exchanged ministers, are regarded officially as an independent nation. But it remained for Mr. Roosevelt in his speech at Kingston, Ontario, last summer, to pledge the cooperation of the United States in defending the territorial integrity of Canada as it would any other state or republic in the Pan-American family.

Mention by Mr. Roosevelt of that Kingston pledge was casually conveyed in his message as an example of how the nations of America cooperated with one another without raising questions of "encirclement," but it is nevertheless of tremendous importance that the President should refer again to Canada's position in world's affairs.

As pointed out in these dispatches earlier this week, if there is a world war, Canada will become England's granary and arsenal, and the German air forces and submarines would do everything possible to harass Canada or bomb her factories. Canada would certainly become involved, and when Mr. Roosevelt says the United States would feel bound to protect Canada, he is merely voicing his expectation of what the sentiment in Congress would be in the event that our northern neighbor became the victim of outside attack.

The President was careful to

Queen's Wardrobe For U. S. Visit Keeps Fashion Experts Guessing

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

The greatest fashion secret today is Queen Elizabeth's wardrobe, now being evolved in her London dressmaker's workrooms, for her approaching American visit.

So far, no important information has been revealed about the design and fabric of the gowns which Britain's blue-eyed queen will wear at state functions in Montreal and Washington in May and June.

Moreover, the chances are good that information about many of them will remain a secret for some time to come. The reason is the hazard that they will be copied. If exact designs, fabrics and colors of her costumes, hats and accessories are released as soon as they are chosen, clothes which claim to have been inspired by or copied from the queen's may appear before she has a chance to wear the originals.

It is stated, however, that her blue—medium and light violet—will play a part in her wardrobe and it has been reported that she is considering the increased use of prints. Descriptions of clothes she has ordered for spring, some of which may be included in her American wardrobe, are already out.

Americans Have Helped

In one of her new frocks the American fashion world has played a part. To mark her coming visit, American wool growers have presented her with a pastel blue shawl wool, woven in the United States from the finest of 34 states. It will be used in a dress to be designed by her London dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, and may be included in her visiting wardrobe.

The same British dressmaker, who has designed her frocks for two years, also has made for the queen's spring wardrobe several light wool costumes of the type she loves. A lavender dress and coat cuffed with silver fox, a pink frock and long coat and a gray dress and three-quarter length coat—all of wool—are among them. There are also a gray crepe frock embroidered in braid and topped by a gray wool coat trimmed in bands of Persian lamb and two black frocks—one accented with white bead embroidery, the other with pale blue crepe.

Soft Blues And Pinks

Generally speaking, however, the queen dislikes to wear black and is said to be most unhappy when family mourning forces her into it. She loves soft blues, pinks, mauves, beiges and grays and most of her daytime clothes are done in those colors. On the royal visits which she has made since she and King George VI were crowned in Westminster Abbey in May, 1937, she often has followed the practice of wearing a soft blue ensemble one day, pink on another, mauve on a third and beige and gray on succeeding days.

Another of her fashion loves is fox which she likes to use either in collars or as bandings for her coats. She is fond of jewels too. Pearl necklaces are among her favorites, though within the last year she has varied the picture with a modern jeweled lapel clip.

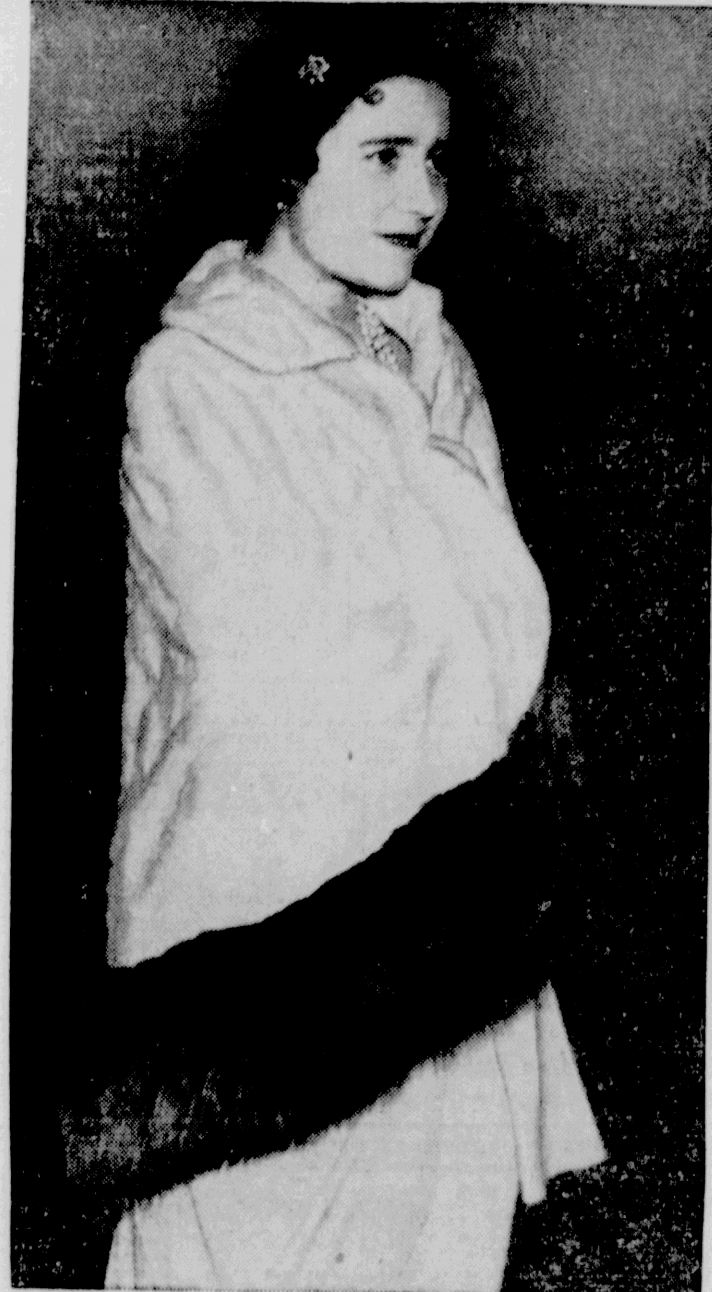

Has Definite Dislikes

The queen also has some definite dislikes—among them high necklines, long sleeves and clothes that fit tightly about the hips. She wears her skirts much longer than the modern mode in keeping with her general program of conservatism in dress.

Queen Elizabeth appeared in this wool frock and coat colored in silver fox during a recent tour of England's industrial northeast.

When it comes to hats, she chooses small or medium sized ones. Though hers are very different from Queen Mary's famous headgear, she seems to have taken two tips from her mother-in-law's famous dictum to a member of the royal family whose hat once blew off during a public ride: "The hats of royalty must have two qualities. They must reveal the face to the people and stay on her head." Queen Elizabeth's hats reveal her face and stay on her head.

England's queen likes white furs for evening wear. Here she wears a cape of ermine, bordered in silver fox.

Architect With Japanese Ideas Builds Houses To Fit Furniture

This is a bedroom suite designed by Antonin Raymond for K. Fukui, in Atami, Japan. The folding screens (right) cut it up into several rooms. Table and window sill are of lacquered concrete. The forty-foot window can be closed with sliding sashes.

By JOAN DURHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Twenty years ago, architect Antonin Raymond took some Occidental ideas to the Orient.

Three months ago he brought some Oriental ideas back to the Occident, ideas he had accumulated while building more than 200 homes for the Japanese.

When the steel-blue-eyed young Czech started building homes for wealthy Japanese, they very naturally pronounced them Occidental. Yet today, when we look at photographs of those same homes we're likely to say, "How very Oriental."

They bear out Raymond's very simple architectural philosophy: Fit the furniture to the person, the room to the furniture and the house to the rooms. That, by the way, is why much of his furniture is built in.

He's also a great hand at adapting. Adapt your plans to the locality in which the home is to be situated, he says, as well as to the individual who is to live in it. Use stone foundations, where you find good stone, concrete where you don't.

And another thing, leave your woods natural. Cover them with a good preservative, but let the natural beauty show through. No camouflaging paints, varnishes and stains for him.

Build your important rooms to the south and east (an old Japanese custom), unimportant ones to the north whenever possible. One house plan in his exhibit at the "House of Homes" in Rockefeller Center showed only an entrance hall, a closet and an extra lavatory on the north.

Little-Girl Styles Mean Exercise For Big Girls

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

The new little-girl frocks demand little-girl posture—head up, shoulders back.

There are just two ways to achieve that posture. The first is to conscientiously sit and stand correctly all the time. The second is to take posture exercises regularly.

Here are some exercises designed to correct wrong posture:

Round shoulders, flat chest, hollow back—Stand erect, then let the upper part of the body fall forward, with arms hanging loosely. Without bending the knees, stretch forcibly toward the floor. Return to upright position, palms out. Stretch, relax; stretch, relax. Do that at least half a dozen times a day.

Forward-thrown shoulders, chest that is flat and contracted, prominent abdomen, head that falls forward—Cross the arms low in front of the body. Fling them forcibly upward and outward. Repeat rhythmically about twenty times.

Hollow back—Lie on your back, hands at your sides. Bend one knee to your chest and fling your arms upward at the same time. Extend the left and bring the arms down. Repeat with other leg. Do this exercise in rhythm with breathing.

This where-do-we-go-from-here posture is part of the exercise Kay Sutton, movie actress, is doing to keep in trim to wear little-girl frocks.

Let Spring Drift Into Your Menus On Delicately-Flavored Floats

Fresh fruit and delicate custard are blended in this banana butterscotch float, a fine springtime dessert.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Floats, favorite desserts as far back as George Washington's day, still are among the highly-rated dishes.

These creamy custards come into their own around Easter time, when eggs are less costly and there is a call for puddings that are delicately flavored and textured.

Glass Instead of China

Floating Island, a popular Mount Vernon sweet, is ace high in many homes today. This recipe uses up egg yolks, leftover, possibly from angel food cake. Beat eight egg yolks, add third of a cup of granulated sugar, two tablespoons of flour, an eighth of a teaspoon of salt and three cups of milk. Cook the mixture in a double boiler until it thickens slightly. Be careful not to overcook it or it may curdle. As soon as the pudding thickens, take it out of the hot water and beat for a minute, then pour in a teaspoon of vanilla and a quarter of a teaspoon each of almond and lemon extracts.

Pour the cooked custard into a glass dish (glass ones seem to do better than china). Top with the floating islands—beaten egg whites. Beat two egg whites until stiff, pour in five tablespoons of confectioner's sugar and beat until creamy. Dip a spoon into cold water and then into the egg-white mixture and push off on top on slightly boiling water. Cover and cook five minutes. Carefully remove with a slotted spoon and let the islands float on the custard. The cooking removes any raw egg taste.

Old Style Touch

For an old-fashioned touch, cut some bright-colored and tart-flavored jelly (plum, crabapple, currant) into half-inch cubes and dot over the top. Some people like the islands mixed through the custard, so press several down with a spoon so their snowy peaks will show through.

There are different kinds of floats—fruit, coconut, chocolate and nut. For a berry or fruit mixture, place a layer of fresh or canned fruit in a dish and when ready to serve, top with balls of ice cream. Peaches, apricots, pears, pineapple, bananas and oranges make delightful blends. You can mix melted chocolate, coconut, candied fruits or nuts with the custard after it has been cooked or add it to whatever topping you prefer.

Angel Food Addition

Angel food and sponge cake slices come in very handy to use with floats. For a superlative float, line a dish with cake slices, cover with thin layer of fruit and pour the custard in. Chill and top with whipped cream, slightly sweetened and flavored.

For something different, cover the float with marshmallows and set under a broiler four minutes to brown the top. Then chill and when ready to serve garnish with candied orange strings.

Banana Butterscotch Float

(Serves Eight)

One package butterscotch arrowroot pudding, three cups milk, two bananas, sliced, two egg whites, three tablespoons granulated sugar.

Mix butterscotch pudding and milk. Cook over a low fire, stirring constantly until it thickens and boils up once. Remove from fire and pour into serving dish to cool. Just before serving, top with sliced bananas and meringue made with egg whites and sugar.

Frying With Garlic

A slight touch of garlic often brings out flavors in veal and lamb steaks. Heat a little fat in a frying pan and add a clove of garlic, cook it for one minute and then discard. The fat is then ready to use for browning the meat and the garlic flavor will be very delicate.

Common Courtesy

Don't drop your personal belongings all over the desk of the person on whom you are calling.

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Office calls—whether they're for business or pleasure—should be brief.

If you find the person on whom you are calling is busy, let him finish what he's doing.

When you converse make your remarks brief and to the point. Don't rush through the interview as if you had to make a train, but state your case quickly and plainly.

Other don'ts for the office caller: Don't hesitate to shake hands. That's an old custom. Don't try to bluff your way past the reception desk. If you have a legitimate reason to get into an office you'll be admitted. Once you've been tried to bluff, however, you've closed the door against future calls. For receptionists, like elephants, never forget.

Hint to the man who has a woman caller: Rise when she enters the room, just as you would at home.

Helps for Housewives

If your cakes crack during baking it's usually because the batter was too stiff or the oven too hot. If there is a soggy streak in the cake, you probably used too much baking powder or soda, too much moisture or, again because the oven was too hot.

If you want only a few drops of lemon juice, place the lemon with a fork and squeeze out the juice. Return the lemon to the refrigerator and it can be used later. There is less waste than when the lemon is cut in halves.

To make overaged butter pats, fold a small piece of waxed paper over the sharp edge of a small paring knife and cut the butter into squares. The paper keeps the edges smooth and even.

Remember the best dressing for avocado pears, according to connoisseurs, is a tart French one. Many people, however, prefer merely lemon juice and salt.

Doughnut Snacks

To use up doughnuts, split them in half and spread them with a blend of orange marmalade and cottage cheese. Toast several minutes and serve for luncheon or supper dessert, or with a hot beverage for a snack.

Cleaning Rafterwork

To clean leather furniture, use a prepared cleaner—there are several good ones on the market. They remove stains and give the leather a certain amount of oil, which it needs. Be sure to remove any surplus cleaner with a soft cloth. Never wash leather upholstery.

DAWN OF NEW DAY FOR HYDRAULIC MINING may bring a gold boom to land around Auburn, Cal., where this concrete barrier 155 feet high crosses the American river, as the first of a series of debris dams being built under the direction of army engineers. Before hydraulic mining was legislated out of existence in 1933 after years of strife between miners and farmers, it produced the bulk of the gold mined in California. The lake is intended as a settling basin for diggings unworked for years.

Terrell says that the only time he was scared was when his wife had these twins; he works 40 lions and tigers together in a single cage.

'IF IT ISN'T TWINS it'll be an accident," says Mrs. Lydia Fifield, 41, East Thompson, Conn., as she plans for new arrival (s). She's had 15 children, 12 of whom were twins. All but three are living. Mrs. Fifield, who's holding her two youngest, says she expects to enter a maternity hospital sometime in July, and she has a pretty good hunch that the babies will be twins.

IS WAR IN THE WIND?

OUT OF THE CLOUDS a warning voice will come to tell Britons of air raid dangers. That's the theory which led to above demonstration of England's much-discussed balloon barrage near London. The speakers have a range of five miles.

A SWISS 'MISS' sent this balloon on an unscheduled jaunt from Buchs airdrome to Graubünden, Switzerland, during the inauguration of a Swiss balloon air raid barrage. An unexpected storm tore the great bag loose from its wires.

GETTING THE WIND UP, Berlin staged a demonstration of a Nazi balloon barrage in much the same fashion as did the English and the Swiss. These balloons are in front of the old museum; at right is the evangelical cathedral.

Local Plant Produces Equipment for Modern Road Building

Paving the Way for Making Improved Modern Highways

Factory Machines Are Also Product Of City Industry

Various Units Are Shipped to Foreign Countries and Widely Used in Local Area

Trails blazed by American pioneers, and others leading deep into dark jungle regions of foreign lands, today have become main arteries to further the march of civilization and modern progress.

Many of these routes have developed in slow stages even after the invention of the first "horseless buggy," and others still bear vestiges of more primitive times.

Road building in America, and other progressive nations of the world, however, has advanced rapidly since the turn of the century, and a local industry has played a prominent part in literally paving the way for progress.

"Reliance" Is the Name
"Reliance" is the trade name on the many types of machines made by the Universal Road Machinery Company of 27 Emerick street and this will be found on a variety of mechanical units on road construction jobs here and abroad.

Shipments of road-making equipment were made within the year to such distant points as South Africa and South America and others have been sent to virtually every other nation in the world.

Many roads of Ulster county and numerous others throughout the state and nation were built with the aid of machines turned out by the local concern which began on a modest basis approximately 40 years ago.

First Plant
Julian Scholl first started the plant which has since become the Universal Road Machinery Co., at about the turn of the century, and it has been under its present name and management for about 30 years.

The concern makes all types of road-making equipment and a variety of other machine units. Included in its list of products are rock crushers, bucket elevators, revolving screens, street sweepers, scarifiers, storage bins, pulverizers, car unloaders, chip spreaders, heating kettles, bin gates, wash boxes, feeders, belt conveyors, grizzlies, air separators and coal breakers.

Special equipment designed or built to the specifications of customers are made at the plant and recently the concern made several machines for the mushroom canning factory of the Knaust Brothers at Coxsackie.

Between 40 and 50 men are regularly employed at the plant and most of these are skilled workmen.

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds of steel is kept in stock at the factory and some of the gray iron used in the plant is bought from the two local foundries. Other gray iron is bought from a Poughkeepsie foundry and steel is purchased from at least six companies.

Patterns for Machines
Patterns for the various machines are made at the factory and some of the parts are purchased from other concerns.

Work at the Universal plant requires the services of men of skill and stamina. Some of the machines range in weight from three tons to 22 tons and many of the single parts of the bigger machines weigh more than a ton.

Sturdy machines in the plant pound and mould the units of the various parts and their handling requires the use of cranes, conveyors and a miniature railroad system which operates within the buildings and extends from one department to another on the property.

Every township in the county uses road-making equipment made at the local factory and several pieces are owned by the Ulster County Department of Highways. The City of Kingston has also bought equipment from the plant and many municipalities of the area have built roads with "Reliance" machines.

Stone Crushers Manufactured

Stone crushers used in area quarries have been made at the plant and large orders of similar equipment have come from contractors in all parts of the nation. Sand and gravel washing and handling equipment represents one of the major products of the company and these have been sold on many large construction jobs.

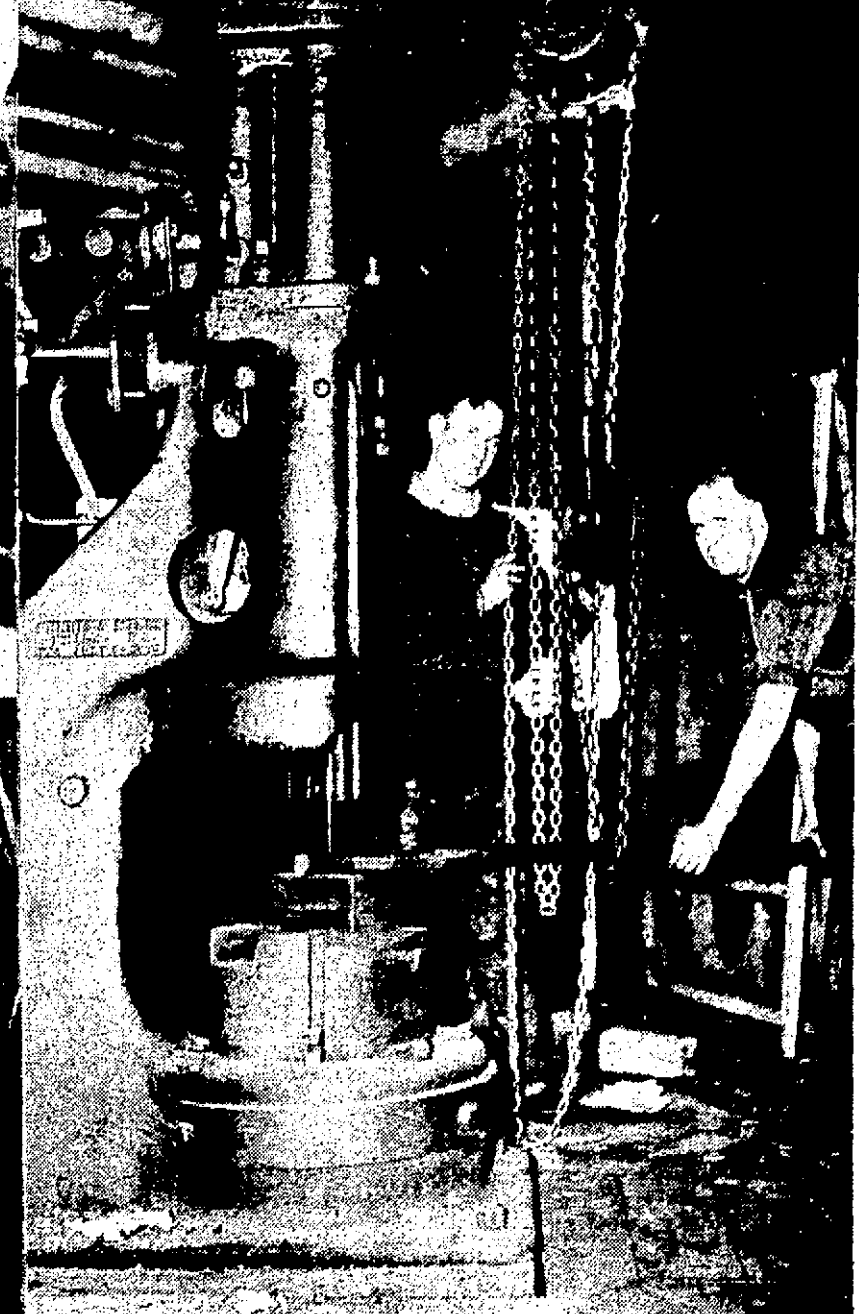

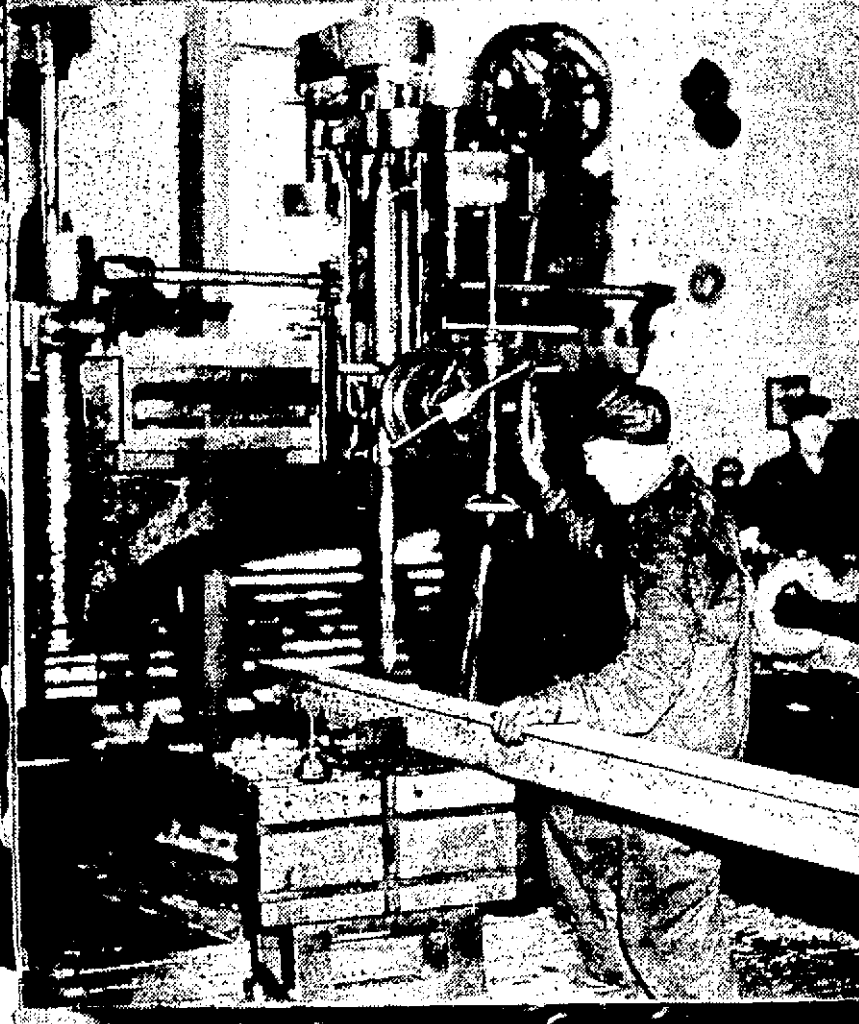

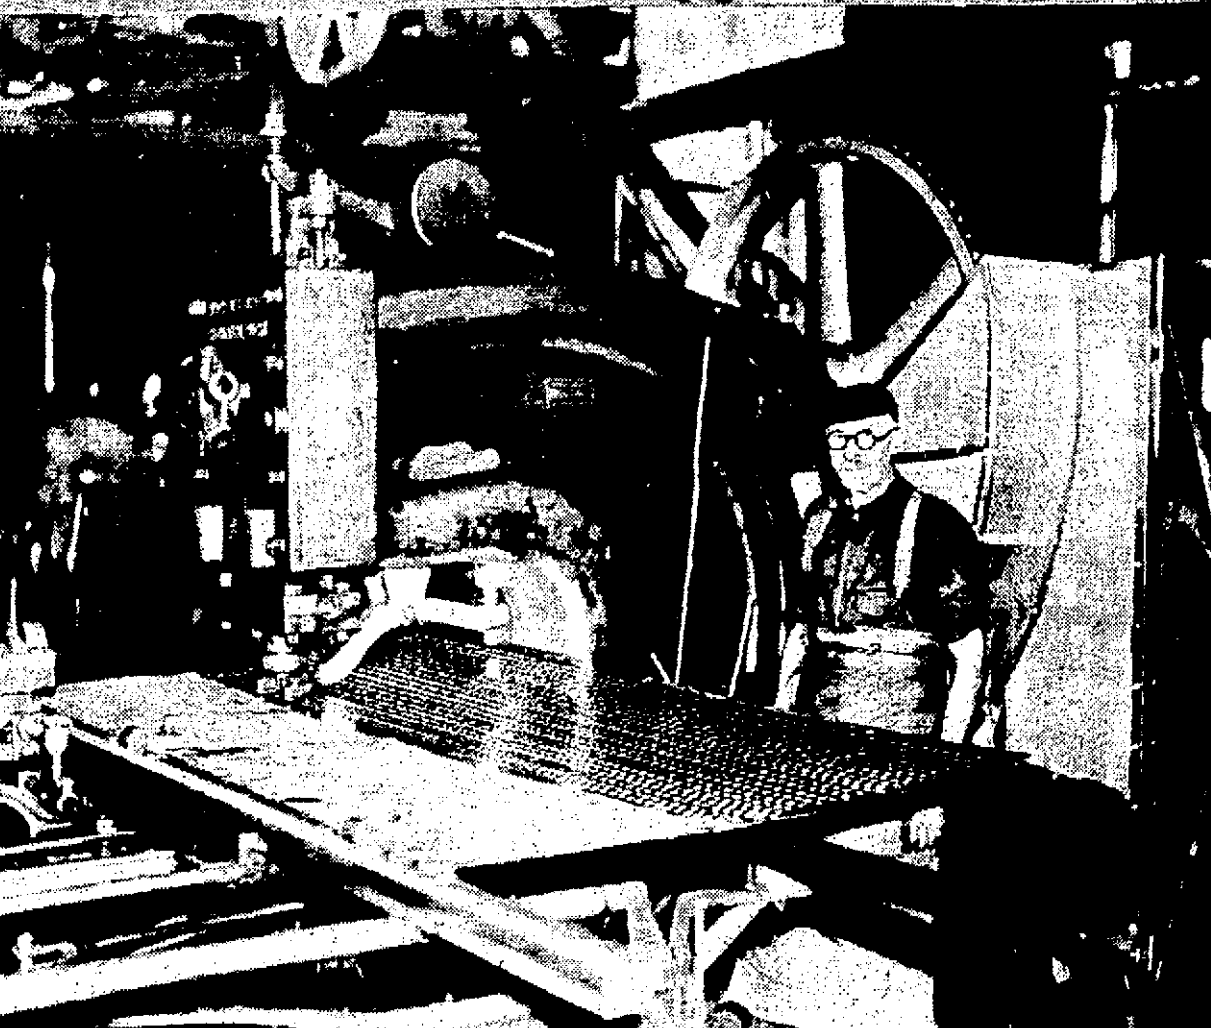

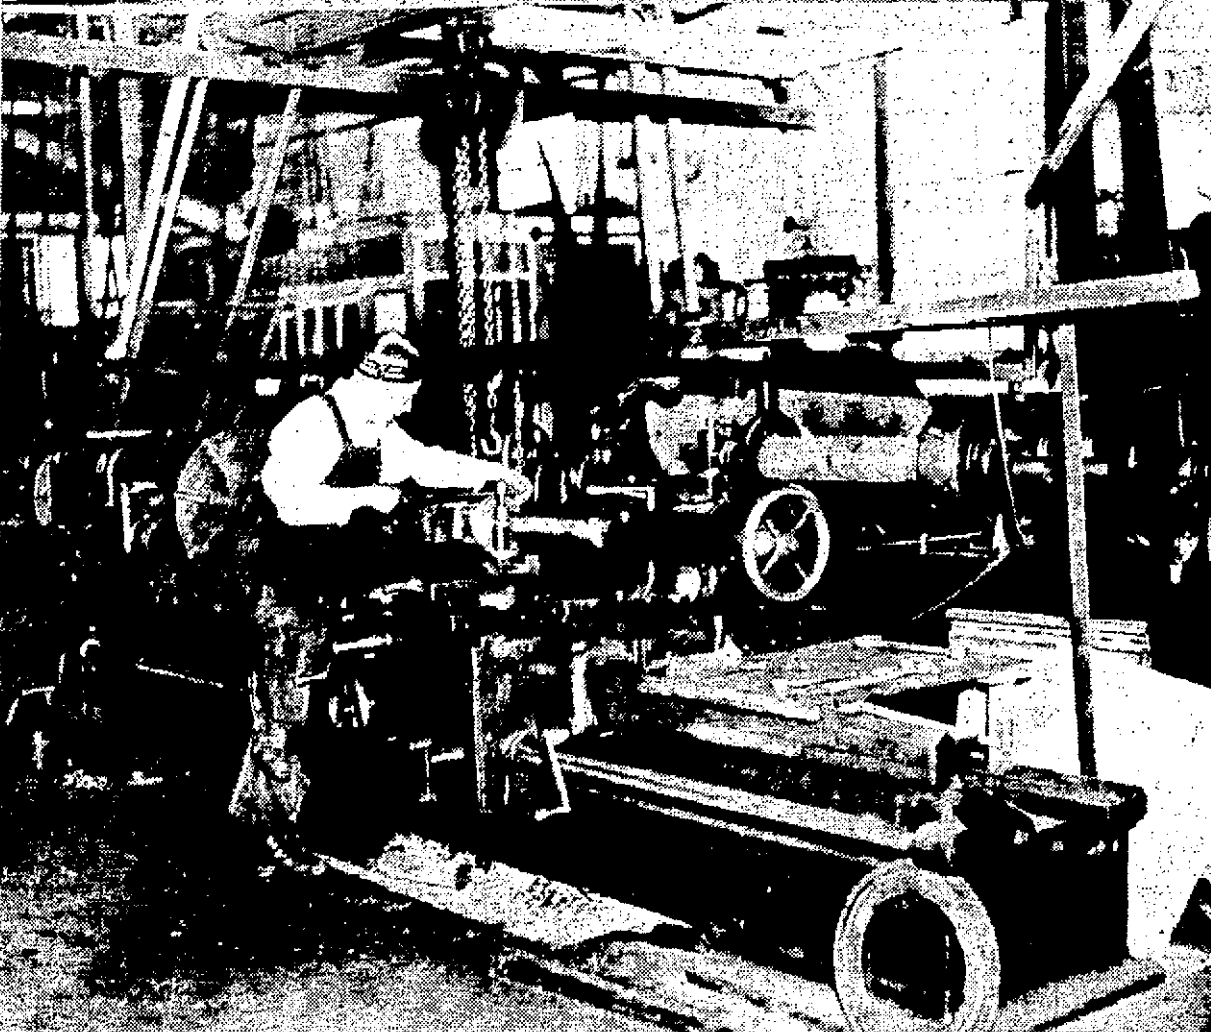

The company recently has been furnishing plant equipment for the cement mills at Rosendale and part of this order is currently being filled. Similar and sundry orders have come from many other plants of the area and in various sections of the state and country.

Equipment for the Knaust Brothers factory at Coxsackie included conveyors, tanks and screens. Such work is mostly in stainless steel and the company takes great pride in its sheet metal department.

Steel is cut to fill various specifications on huge rotary sheers and specially designed cutting machines and more solid metal parts such as drill stems for drilling rock are pounded into shape, after the metal is submitted to intense heat, by automatic pounding hammers.

Work on steel is done in the plant for the Ingersoll-Rand and Timkin companies and many orders of these concerns are placed through the Universal Company.

Other heavy machines punch

All types of heavy machinery required in modern road building are made at the Universal Road Machinery of Kingston. The concern, although specializing in road machinery, also fills orders for factory machinery made to specifications and other sundry equipment. Products produced in the local plant are sold in all parts of the world and many roads of the county, state and nation have been manufactured there. Shown above at the top, left is a view of the yard in front of the machine shop, with various types of machine parts in the foreground and a view of the main building in the background. Top right shows a workman with an electric arc torch used in cutting steel. The light is so brilliant that a special guard for the eyes is worn by workmen who use it. At center, left, is one of the machines used in repairing and shaping parts and at right, center is one of the heavy pressure machines with a drill for punching holes in metal. Another perforating machine, used extensively for making the heavy metal screens, is shown at the bottom left. The bottom right picture shows workmen at one of the large automatic hammers in the plant.

holes in the metal for screening units such as those used in classifying the sizes of crushed stone and coal.

Repair Operations
Repair work is done at the plant on heavier machine parts for various concerns using such equipment and a variety of special work is always under way.

The company is now furnishing a plant in Orange county with equipment and another recent order calls for the construction of a 100-ton steel bin. Orders from foreign nations recently included one for 12 street sweepers which were shipped to South Africa.

Another major product of the company is its air separator which is made in sizes ranging from 30 inches to 18 feet. This is a specially designed product and is used wherever fine separation of materials is required.

This product of Universal is known as the Gayco-Reliance and has been vastly improved during the past five years. Such centrifugal air separators now make it possible to use separators on materials which have been a serious problem to manufacturers. They represent the latest in design and are constructed to allow for quick, positive adjustment.

Reliance crusher units are manufactured in 10 sizes and can be supplied for either portable or stationary use. Three of the heavier units, however, are not practical for use on wheels, and are furnished for stationary plants only.

Used on B. W. S. Jobs

Machinery made by the local company is now in use on some of the construction jobs in the building of New York city's expanding water works system, and the units for such work is generally purchased by the various contractors.

All parts and machines made at the plant are given physical tests before shipment at the factory laboratory. A careful inspection is made of each unit and a detailed record is filed with each order, so that orders for repairs can be filled promptly and accurately at any time.

A complete stock of parts is kept at the plant so that shipments of any standard repairs can be made within two hours after the order is received.

Engineers work constantly to improve all units made by the company and frequently designs are simplified and the efficiency of the product increased wherever it is found possible.

A New York office is maintained by the company, and one unit of the sales force operates from there. Two men also travel out of the local office and the concern has at least one agent in every state in the nation.

These men fill the orders with various contractors and public works departments to provide the type of modern machines which has made possible many wide, smooth roads and streets in the vast network of modern thoroughfares.

Removing Grass Stains

To remove grass stains from washable material dip it as quickly as possible into lukewarm water and mild soap suds. Rub until the stains come out and then rinse in clear, warm water. If the material is not washable, sponge the stains with denatured alcohol. Rub gently until the stain disappears.

Wall Stain Remover

To remove fresh stains from light-colored walls rub them lightly with a mild soap powder mixed with cold water. Remove with clear water applied on a clean cloth and then wipe dry with another clean soft cloth. Removing stains and spots as soon as they appear will help keep down painting bills.

A recent development in the commercial production of high purity chemicals is the use of platinum-clad base metals for processing equipment. Since many of the chemicals are highly corrosive, this precious metal performs the double function of protecting the equipment from deterioration and of safeguarding the products from contamination.

Unpaid Teachers Strike

Shamokin, Pa., April 15 (AP).—More than 5,400 school children in Northumberland and Schuylkill counties started an indefinite vacation today while their 186 striking teachers, unpaid for months, sought other jobs. The doors of 22 schools closed yesterday. The teachers said they would not return until paid. The communities eyed the state capital for possible aid in ending the walk-out. Teachers in similar straits in other hard coal districts delayed taking strike action in the hope of receiving state help.

Senators Dispute
Roosevelt Meaning

critics of the President will not attempt to so misconstrue the President's address as to attempt to frighten the American people.

Reynolds Opposes
Senator Reynolds (R-NC) took a vastly different view, contending the President's "break the bonds" remark was an appeal for foreign peoples to "get from under the governments that they have now."

Officials made no elaboration or explanation of the President's expressed hope that foreign nations would get rid of ideas leading toward war. However, several of them pointed to parallel statements in the speeches of Mr. Roosevelt yesterday and Undersecretary of State Welles on Thursday.

Said the President: "There is no fatality which forces the old world towards new catastrophe. Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds. They have within themselves the power to become free at any moment."

Said Mr. Welles: "When the men and women who will have to do the suffering and the starving, the fighting and the dying, realize that war solves no problems but only creates them, it is conceivable that they will meekly abide by the dictum we heard a few days ago from the head of a great people that civilization requires a war every now and then."

He was referring apparently to the speech of Mussolini March 26, in which the duke said: "We consider a perpetual peace as a catastrophe for human civilization."

Owned by New Salem Man

An interesting copy of the Gazette of the United States of the date of April 20-May 2, 1789, is in the possession of John A. Schoenecker of Box 91, New Salem road. The Gazette contains an account of the inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States and his inaugural address given to both houses in the Senate Chamber following his oath of office. On the front page of the small four-page newspaper is a line cut picture of President Washington and an account of the ceremonies.

Plumbing Inspector Tells
Of Colors in Bath Room

Plumbing Inspector Charles H. Gregory said today that the trend in bathroom decorations is decidedly toward color. Almost any color scheme can be used, he said, with white fixtures, but unusual distinction and charm are more easily acquired with fixtures in color. Harmony in design is made complete and enhanced by the beauty of chromed finished brass goods which are available. There is also a new bath tub that appeals to the whole family. It has two roomy seats, thus providing for more comfortable immersion, bathing with plenty of room to move under the shower.

A selection of chairman will probably be made at the meeting Wednesday night of the Ulster County Council.

Interpreted Incorrectly

British Troops To Gibraltar

London, April 15 (AP).—The war office announced today that the first battalion of the Welsh Guards regiment would be sent to Gibraltar "on or after April 22" to strengthen the defenses of that key center of British armed might in the Mediterranean.

The announcement coincided with Anglo-French diplomatic consultations said to have arisen from anxiety over reported concentrations of Italian troops in Spanish Morocco and of Spanish troops and war material on the Spanish mainland near Gibraltar.

British diplomats sought further extension sponsored by Britain and France by efforts to enlist Soviet Russia's huge air force at Gibraltar defense boom to both entrances to admiralty harbor were swung into position.

Rewind Attacks On France

Rome, April 15 (AP).—Virginia Gayda, Fascism's chief newspaper spokesman, warned today of an "acute, perhaps even explosive stage" in world events as the rest of the Italian press renewed attacks on France.

Gayda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia that current conferences between Premier Mussolini and German Field Marshal Wilhelm Goering, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's right-hand man, would "make a new contribution to the system and activity of the Rome-Berlin axis."

Berlin axis.

He spoke of it in relation to "the present situation which is so burdened with events and impossibilities."

Italy and Germany, he asserted, were able to confront "the system of encirclement" with forces "powerful and for the most part equal and similar" to the "hybrid association" opposing them.

Mussolini told an Albanian delegation to Rome that their kingdom was now part of the Italian empire.

Poland and Rumania United

Warsaw, April 15 (AP).—Poland and Rumania united today against any German drive into eastern Europe and drafted strong defense plans.

The two nations, formally allied since 1921 to protect their eastern frontiers against Soviet Russia, exchanged pledges to unite in armed resistance to aggression by Germany or a possible German satellite nation.

Permanent military missions in both Warsaw and Bucharest were in close contact. It was understood that Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Polish strong man, would become supreme commander of both armies in case of war.

Mutual pledges were exchanged orally between Polish Foreign Minister Jozef Beck and Rumanian Ambassador Richard Franasovici in Warsaw and Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and Polish Ambassador Count Roger Raczyński in Bucharest.

Soviet Russia, against whom the original Polish-Rumanian alliance was directed, is expected now to send aid, should German attack—for the rich Russian Ukraine is frequently regarded as one of the Nazi goals.

Roosevelt Sends
New Peace Appeal

"Because of the fact that after vanquished nations, and neutral nations will suffer."

"I refuse to believe that the world is, of necessity, such a prisoner of destiny. The contrary, it is clear that the leaders of great nations have it in their power to liberate their peoples from the disaster that impends."

"It is equally clear that in their own minds and in their own hearts the peoples themselves desire that their fears be ended. x x x."

"You have repeatedly asserted that you and the German people have no desire for war."

"If this is true there need be no war."

The identical message to Mussolini referred to the Italian people rather than the German people.

Voice of Strength

The President's appeal said the United States spoke on the international situation "not through selfishness or fear or weakness."

"If we speak now it is with the voice of strength and with friendship for mankind," it continued.

The President said it still was clear to him "that international problems can be solved at the council table."

"It is therefore no answer to the plea for peaceful discussion," the communications added, "for one side to plead that unless they receive assurances beforehand that the verdict will be theirs, they will not lay aside their arms."

"In conference rooms, as in courts, it is necessary that both sides enter upon the discussion in good faith, assuming that substantial justice will accrue to both; and it is customary and necessary that they leave their arms outside the room where they confer."

Saying he was convinced world peace would be promoted if the heads of governments would make frank statements regarding future policy, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Because the United States, as one of the nations of the western hemisphere, is not involved in the immediate controversies which have arisen in Europe, I trust that you may be willing to make such a statement of policy to me as the head of a nation far removed from Europe in order that I, acting only with the responsibility and obligation of a friendly intermediary, may communicate such declaration to the other nations now apprehensive as to the course which the policy of your government may take."

Mr. Roosevelt said that reciprocal assurances of peace "will bring to the world an immediate measure of relief."

If such assurances are given, the president said, he proposed that "two essential problems shall promptly be discussed in the resulting peaceful surroundings, and in those discussions the governments of the United States will gladly take part."

"The discussions which I have in mind," Mr. Roosevelt said, "relate to the most effective and immediate manner through which the peoples of the world can obtain progressive relief from the crushing burden of armament which is each day bringing them more closely to the brink of economic disaster."

"Simultaneously the government of the United States would be prepared to take part in discussions looking towards the most practical manner of opening up avenues of international trade to the end that every nation of the earth may be enabled to buy and sell on equal terms in the world market as well as to possess assurance of obtaining the materials and products of peaceful economic life."

The president said that complex world problems of today cannot be properly studied except in an atmosphere of peace.

Concluding his lengthy communication, the Chief Executive wrote:

"I think you will not misunderstand the spirit of frankness in this hour are literally responsible for the fate of humanity in the coming years."

"They cannot fail to hear the prayers of their peoples to be protected from the foreseeable chaos of war. History will hold them accountable for the lives and happiness of all—even unto the least."

"I hope that your answer will make it possible for humanity to lose fear and regain security for many years to come."

Ulster County Day At World's Fair

Monday, June 26

Monday, June 26, will be Ulster County-Kingston Day at the New York World's Fair.

The change of date from June 19, as originally set, was finally decided upon this morning, following the return to Kingston last night of Albert Kurtz, who had been in New York City conferring with World's Fair officials on the subject.

Mr. Kurtz was in conference with Howard Mackrell, director of special events for the fair and with Rufus C. Van Aken, who has charge of arrangements for the Ulster County Society dinner to be held on Ulster County Day.

Mr. Mackrell said "We will do anything you want us to do," and yesterday tentatively set June 26 as the day for participation of Ulster county people, as a whole, in the Fair. Mr. Van Aken said that the change of date would not interfere with his arrangements.

This morning Mr. Kurtz conferred with a number of local people, including Mayor Heslin, and others and all agreeing that the change would be for the best, the matter was settled and all officials have been notified to that effect.

The change already had been approved by the recently formed Ulster County Council, the matter having been brought up at its meeting Wednesday night, when it was found that the June 19 date would conflict with Regent examinations in the schools and would make it impossible for many of the students to participate.

Presumably the parade committee of the Ulster County Blossom Festival will now proceed with the suggestion originally made to have a competition among the high school bands of the county, the winning band to be taken to the World's Fair on Ulster county day.

WALKKILL

Mr. and Mrs. George Stillwell and daughter, Georgiana, have returned from a trip to Washington, D. C.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 15 (AP)—Faint peace hopes once more revived

Wall Street sentiment today and the stock market put on a rally of 1 to around 4 points.

Early reports President Roosevelt had made a plea to Hitler and Mussolini to halt the string of war crises that have been disturbing international business and industry served to prop prices at the start.

Subsequent release of the text of the messages to the dictators, asking for a 10-year moratorium on invasions, brought market activity to a standstill for a brief period while traders crowded around the news tickers to read the words of the Chief Executive.

There was a later pickup in dealings as most in the boardrooms placed a constructive interpretation on the administration's move.

Bonds trailed stocks on the reversal of trend. Commodities were uneven.

Despite several slow-downs in the two-hour proceedings, the turnover in stocks approximated 600,000 shares.

Prominent stocks on the rebound were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, du Pont, General Electric, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda and American Smelting.

Foreign Markets Inactive, Weaker

Foreign markets were inactive and weaker Friday as there were reports of military operations in the centers of disturbance in Europe and stocks on the New York Exchange opened sharply lower, industrial averages being off two points from Thursday's close. Heaviest trading was in the first hour, following which there was little activity and few changes, until the last hour when the best prices of the day were established. The close showed a loss of 1.31 points for industrial issues in the Dow-Jones list, to 126.20. Rails declined 0.40 point during the day, to 25.08 and utilities were off 0.30 point, to 22.01. Volume was 620,000 shares, smallest since March 29.

The London market was weak, although selling was small and the sharp decline in prices was attributed to nervous continental liquidation. There was all around weakness on the Amsterdam Bourse; prices on the Paris market closed weak in inactive trading.

A new high for raw sugar and an eight-year high for silk contracts featured commodity markets yesterday. Silk went to $2.39 1/2 a pound. Rubber lost about 10 points. Wheat futures were mixed. Chicago closing was higher to 1 1/2 lower. Cotton closed one to three points lower on foreign liquidation.

There are more favorable reports from the automobile field. It is stated that figures on sales for the first 10 days of April indicate that the pick-up in the last part of March is continuing and as a result at least a partial restoration of the March cut in production is expected next week. Appearances likely to reach April output of 375,000 units. This would compare with around 355,000 last month and 238,129 a year ago.

With the Easter shopping as a stimulant department store sales throughout the country made remarkable gains during the first week in April. The average gain over last year, for the country as a whole, was 22 per cent. Atlanta and Kansas City districts showed the largest percentage of gain over 1938, the advance being 38 per cent. For the New York district the gain was 13.4 per cent.

The government is studying the problem of handling billions of dollars in foreign investments, balances and gold in the United States in the event of an international crisis such as war, in order and stability on American markets. Treasury report shows that at the end of 1938 total investments here by foreigners was $5,318,900,000. In addition to this there was something like $2,003,932,000 in short-term balances, including bank deposits.

Earnings of most machine tool firms for the first quarter of 1939 are expected to be ahead of those for the final period of 1938. Bayuk Cigars had first quarter net of $287,976, or 68 cents a share, vs. net in first quarter of 1938 of $174,523, 37 cents a share.

Underwood, Elliott Fisher report net $560,163 for the first quarter, up slightly from 1938 quarter. Noranda Mines had net for the March 31 quarter equal to $1.27 a share, vs. $1.24 a share year ago. Orders booked by Electric Storage Battery for first three months show a 20 per cent gain over the first quarter of 1938.

Union Oil of California declared a dividend of 25 cents; previously paid 30 cents quarterly. General Outdoor Advertising ordered $1 million Class A stock and regular quarterly of $150,000 and regular General Foods declared 50 cents on common; Kendall Co. $1.50 on 56 participating preferred A; Sharp & Dohme 87 1/2 cents on preference A stock. Noranda Mines declared an interim dividend of $1; made same payment on March 15 last. Buckeye Pipe Line pays 50 cents.

Old Lithograph Prints

The record of American development would be incomplete without the lithographic advertising prints of the Nineteenth century. Although originally published to be given away by the company or business man whose name bore, they are not of inferior work and, in some instances, are the only pictorial records of their kind.

Although generally disregarded by collectors, these advertisements supply graphic information as to what was happening in the United States during the lithographic period, writes Thomas Hamilton Ormsbee in American Collector.

For instance, the English print makers depicted many coaching scenes in their sporting subjects; practically all of the American prints showing this mode of transportation were brought out to spread the reputations and gain passengers for individual stage-coach lines.

Clearly shown, many of the most interesting phases of the gold rush development would be totally lacking were it not for the prints issued for advertising purposes. Further, one has only to observe the commercial information contained in the titles of some of the clipper ship and early steamship prints to realize that they must have originally been produced as advertisements and distributed as such.

In the nation-wide tabulation, auction gave way only to contract bridge, which is currently Number One card game, and to perennially favored poker.

Two old favorites, pinochle and rummy, battled it out for fourth honors with rummy coming out on top in the ratings. Games such as hearts, 30, whist and solitaire all have their staunch supporters. It was shown, but trailed the leaders by a considerable margin.

There are 42 different card games keeping America entertained at present, according to the poll. Some are favored in certain sections—such as schafkopf (sheephead) in Wisconsin. Others are practically unheard of outside limited areas. Examples of these are guernsey bull and hoof and mouth, which obviously came from the cattle country, and card games called fery cross, bonanza, data and squeeze which can be traced to no particular localities.

Substitute Road For New Reservoir

a safe highway which cannot be obstructed by bill-boards or other obstructions. In addition the city claims the measure is in the interest of health in that no residences or businesses will be close to the water line and endanger health through contamination.

Ulster county and the town of Wawarsing did not seriously entertain objection but asked to withhold consideration pending further conference with county and town officials.

The city of New York contended that any damage to adjacent property through relocation of the highway or to property which might not be located directly on the new road as a matter for the commission to fix.

Public utilities objected to the plans, not too strenuously because of the nature of the plans, but rather on the grounds that they were not being given wide enough rights by the city on relocated lines. The main utility lines will run on the north shore of the reservoir where the greater population is. The city of New York contended that it was willing to give any reasonable right to the utility companies to string lines to meet consumer needs but that a blanket release of broad nature such as the utility companies would not be required. It was held that the rights now given corporations through easements gave the utility companies a right to do almost anything they desired along their easement.

The city contended that there should be some control over what could be done but held that no restriction would be made where the company needed to string wires to serve a customer. The city desires to limit the width of easement and the number of take-offs from the main lines along the roadway in order not to have the reservoir property a "mass of wires."

Senators Dispute Roosevelt Meaning

critics of the President will not attempt to so misconstrue the President's address as to attempt to frighten the American people.

Reynolds Opposes

Senator Reynolds (R-N.C.) took a vastly different view, contending the President's "break the bonds" remark was an appeal for foreign peoples to "get from under the governments that they have now."

"If that isn't meddling, what is?" he demanded. "Suppose some responsible head of a state in Europe would address such an appeal to our people. We couldn't employ words strong enough to answer it."

Officials made no elaboration or explanation of the President's expressed hope that foreign nations would get rid of ideas leading toward war. However, several of them pointed to parallel statements in the speeches of Mr. Roosevelt yesterday and Undersecretary of State Welles on Thursday.

Said the President: "There is no fatality which forces the old world towards new catastrophe. Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds. They have within themselves the power to become free at any moment."

Said Mr. Welles:

"When the men and women who will have to do the suffering and the starving, the fighting and the dying, realize that war solves no problems but only creates them, they will be free to make the decision."

He was referring apparently to the speech of Mussolini March 26 in which the duce said:

"We consider a perpetual peace as a catastrophe for human civilization."

Copy of Early U. S. Paper

Owned by New Salem Man

An interesting copy of the Gazette of the United States of the date of April 20-May 2, 1789, is in the possession of John A. Schoencker of Box 91, New Salem road. The Gazette contains an account of the inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States and his inaugural address given to both houses in the Senate Chamber following his oath of office.

On the front page of the small four-page newspaper is a line cut picture of President Washington and an account of the ceremonies. The paper is in a very excellent state of preservation and has been in the possession of Mr. Schoencker since 1918 when he became owner of the paper at the death of a relative.

Plumbing Inspector Tells

Of Colors in Bath Room

Plumbing Inspector Charles H. Gregory said today that the trend in bathroom decorations is decidedly toward color. Almost any color scheme can be used, he said, with white fixtures, but unusual distinction and charm are more easily acquired with fixtures in color. Harmony in design is made complete and enhanced by the beauty of chromoid finished brass goods which are available. There is also a new bath tub that appeals to the whole family. It has two roomy seats, thus providing for more comfortable immersion, bathing with plenty of room to move under the shower.

County Group Will Name

A selection of chairman will probably be made at the meeting Wednesday night of the Ulster County Council.

British Troops To Gibraltar

London, April 15 (AP)—The war office announced today that the first battalion of the Welsh Guards regiment would be sent to Gibraltar on or after April 22 to strengthen the defenses of that key center of British armed might in the Mediterranean.

The announcement coincided with Anglo-French diplomatic consultations said reported commentators of Italian troops in Spanish Morocco and of Spanish troops and war material on the Spanish mainland near Gibraltar.

British diplomats sought further extension sponsored by Britain and France by efforts to enlist Soviet Russia's huge air force.

At Gibraltar defense boom to both entrances to admiralty harbor were swung into position.

Renew Attacks On France

Rome, April 15 (AP)—Vicenzo Gavda, Fascist chief newspaper spokesman, warned today of an acute perhaps even explosive situation in world events as the rest of the Italian press renewed attacks on France.

Gavda wrote in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia that current contacts between Premier Mussolini and German Field Marshal Wilhelm Goering, Reichsminister of War, might lead to a new contribution to the system and activity of the Rome-Berlin axis.

For Shivering New Yorkers

Ithaca, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—To shivering New Yorkers awaiting the delayed advent of warm weather, came today this chilling news: In 1916 there wasn't any summer!

A scrapbook page kept by the grandmother of Linnet Dillon of Black Rock now a part of Buffalo reveals chronologically a summerless 1916.

March 9—Snow 2 1/2 feet deep.

April 12—Four inches snow.

May 20—11 inches snow had last night that mud three inches deep will bear a man.

June 6—Snowed from early morn until 1 p. m., melting as fast as it fell, save on north side of buildings.

June 18—A little frost.

July 11—Crops very backward.

August 21—First vines and corn in some places ruined.

October 17—Snow eight inches deep.

Roosevelt Sends New Peace Appeal

"Because of the fact that after unquashed nations, and neutral nations will suffer."

"I refuse to believe that the world is, of necessity, such a prisoner of destiny."

"On the contrary, it is clear that the leaders of great nations have it in their power to liberate their peoples from the disaster that impends."

"It is equally clear that in their own minds and in their own hearts the peoples themselves desire that their fears be ended. x x x."

"You have repeatedly asserted that you and the German people have no desire for war."

"If this is true there need be no war."

The identical message to Mussolini referred to the Italian people rather than the German people.

Voice of Strength

The President's appeal said the United States spoke on the international situation "not through selfishness or fear or weakness."

"If we speak now it is with the voice of strength and with friendship for mankind," it continued.

The President said it still was clear to him "that international problems can be solved at the council table."

"It is therefore no answer to the plea for peaceful discussion," the communications added, "for one side to plead that unless they receive assurances beforehand they will not raise their arms."

"In conference rooms, as in courts, it is necessary that both sides enter upon the discussion in good faith, assuming that substantial justice will accrue to both; and it is customary and necessary that they leave their arms outside the room where they confer."

Saying he was convinced world peace would be promoted if the heads of governments would make frank statements regarding future policy, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Because the United States, as one of the nations of the western hemisphere, is not involved in the immediate controversies which have arisen in Europe, I trust that you may be willing to make such a statement of policy to me as the head of a nation far removed from Europe in order that I, acting only with the responsibility and obligation of a friendly intermediary, may communicate such declaration to the other nations now apprehensive as to the course which the policy of your government may take."

Mr. Roosevelt said that reciprocal assurances of peace "will bring to the world an immediate measure of relief."

If such assurances are given, the president said, he proposed that "two essential problems shall promptly be discussed in the resulting peaceful surroundings, and in those discussions the government of the United States will gladly take part."

"The discussions which I have in mind," Mr. Roosevelt said, "relate to the most effective and immediate manner through which the peoples of the world can obtain progressive relief from the crushing burden of armament which is each day bringing them more closely to the brink of economic disaster."

"Simultaneously the government of the United States would be prepared to take part in discussions looking towards the most practical manner of opening up avenues of international trade to the end that every nation of the earth may be enabled to buy and sell on equal terms in the world market as well as to possess assurance of obtaining the materials and products of peaceful economic life."

The president said that complex world problems of today cannot be properly studied except in an atmosphere of peace.

Concluding his lengthy communication, the Chief Executive wrote:

"I think you will not misunderstand the spirit of frankness in which I send you this message. Heads of great governments in this hour are literally responsible for the fate of humanity in the coming years."

"They cannot fail to hear the prayers of their peoples to be protected from the foreseeable chaos of war. History will hold them accountable for the lives and happiness of all—even unto the least."

"I hope that your answer will make it possible for humanity to lose fear and regain security for many years to come."
